

HOOVER GETS WARM WELCOME ON VISITING CITIES IN COSTA RICA

Goes to San Jose, the Capital, After Short Stay at Punta Arenas, Scene of His Landing.

PEACE-MAKING IN NICARAGUA

Rival Leaders, at Luncheon on Battleship, Intimate They Will Abide by Result of Election.

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Nov. 28.—President-elect Hoover arrived at San Jose, capital of Costa Rica, this afternoon from Punta Arenas. There were several thousand persons on hand to give him a warm and official welcome.

PUNTA ARENAS, Costa Rica, Nov. 28.—Herbert Hoover, President-elect of the United States, was given a noisy welcome when he landed here at 5:30 a. m. today in his good-will mission. Shore batteries exchanged salutes with the U. S. S. Maryland, which had anchored a half hour earlier in the harbor.

Ships in the harbor, including the British vessel, Salvador, were decorated with flags. A large crowd, held back by militia, was on the wharf and quays and the native police band played as the visitors came ashore.

A delegation from the Cabinet met Hoover, who left soon afterward for the capital at San Jose, where he will be received by President-elect Jose Gonzales Viquez.

U. S. S. MARYLAND, on way to Punta Arenas, Costa Rica, Nov. 28.—President-elect Hoover approached Punta Arenas confident that his tour is bringing results. He seems not only to be creating good will toward the United States but to be extending a better influence on Central American politics, where more or less bitterness has prevailed before and after elections.

President Diaz of Nicaragua, President-elect Moncada and former President Chamorro were brought together yesterday at Corinto by design, but Hoover did some peace making in Honduras partly by accident.

When he arrived in Amapala Monday he found waiting to welcome him Vice President Charles "Pancho" Minister and other Cabinet members. President Barona was ill and could not leave the capital, but Hoover learned that Dr. Vicente Mejia Colindres, President-elect of Honduras, who was in Amapala, had not been in the line of functions the Government had arranged.

Heals Honduran Breach.
Sensing the situation, Hoover asked that Dr. Colindres be invited. This was done, and apparently it meant the beginning of the healing of a Honduran political breach. "The important thing," Hoover said in speaking of Honduran affairs, "is that leaders of the conservative Congress, chosen along with the President agree not to oppose his confirmation. You know in Honduras, Congress has to confirm the presidential election."

The luncheon on board the Maryland yesterday brought together Diaz, Moncada, and Chamorro and all three intimated that they would abide by the result of the election and would work together for the common good of the country. They were emphatic in saying that they wanted the closest and friendliest relations with the United States.

Moncada and Diaz said after the luncheon that they favored the speedy construction of a canal across Nicaragua along a route on which the United States already holds an option. Moncada said that he had favored the building of the canal by the United States for years and that he thought the United States should be allowed to build naval bases at each end of the proposed link between the Atlantic and the Pacific. They also said that they hoped United States Marines would be kept in Nicaragua at least two more years until the Nicaraguan National Guard was thoroughly trained.

In response to inquiries by newspaper men both Nicaraguan officials condemned Gen. Sandino, who has been pursued through various sections of the Central American country by the marines. Moncada said that Sandino was "without reason," while Diaz characterized Sandino as a "bandit." There was a bit of disagreement.

COOLIDGE IN VIRGINIA FOR THANKSGIVING

Headquarters for Four Days Will Be Country Club Near Waynesboro.

WAYNESBORO, Va., Nov. 28.—President and Mrs. Coolidge arrived here this afternoon on their special train on the way to Swannanoa Country Club, where they will spend Thanksgiving.

Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge set out in a White House limousine for the country retreat where Gov. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia was to welcome them to the state.

Several companies of cadets from the Fishburne Military Academy were at the station. Mayor Gardner of Waynesboro and a reception committee officially greeted the President, and from beyond the station came the booming of the presidential salute of 21 guns.

A large crowd that gathered lustily packed the station grounds. The President, clad in a great coat with a seal skin and brown felt hat, and Mrs. Coolidge in a mulberry ensemble, waved to the crowds as they walked from their train, pausing only long enough for the customary photos.

At a leash, which Mrs. Coolidge held, Tiny Tim, the brown chow dog, tugged energetically and barked loudly at the crowds. Behind came three other White House dogs.

Tomorrow Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge will attend Thanksgiving services in Charlottesville and afterwards will be guests of honor at a buffet lunch at the home of President Alton B. Parker at the University of Virginia. Later they may be spectators for a few minutes at the Thanksgiving day football game between the Universities of Virginia and North Carolina.

The Thanksgiving dinner will be in the evening at the Swannanoa Country Club.
Mr. Coolidge has accepted no invitation for Friday and Saturday. A portion of these days may be spent in clay pigeon shooting, a sport in which the President was initiated and exhibited considerable skill in Wisconsin last summer. The party will return to Washington late Sunday.

POLICEMAN SHOT DEAD IN HOSPITAL BED BY HIS NURSE

Woman Shoots and Wounds
Self Seriously After Killing Denver Officer, a Patient.

"WAITED FIVE YEARS FOR THIS CHANCE"

Notes Written by Miss Far-ice King Indicate Love Affair With R. K. Evans
Before He Wed.

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 28.—Farice King, 35-year-old nurse, who was assigned to a ward in the General Hospital here where Patrolman Robert K. Evans, a former suitor, was recovering from bullet wounds, early today shot and killed the policeman as he slept. She then fired a bullet into her own breast. Physician said she had a chance for recovery.

On a table in the ward were found two notes written by Miss King. One addressed to "Dearest Bob" (the policeman), said: "You belong to me and I cannot go on any longer without you. I have waited five years for this chance and it came. I hope no one else will ever know the real reason for this. Only you and Farice." The other, addressed to Miss King's brother, director of a Denver mortuary, said: "Please bury me at the same time and near him. I'm sorry for the grief and sorrow this brings to all of you."

The shooting was the climax, officers said, of a romance begun 11 years ago and ended five years ago when Evans married another. Last Friday Miss King was called to the hospital to attend Louis Smith, a fireman.

When she recognized Evans, whom she had not seen for two years. Evans had been wounded in a fight last week with an unidentified man whom he attempted to arrest.

Smith told Deputy Coroner George H. Postwick that Miss King had been up most of last night. "She talked to Evans a long time and I heard Evans urge her to get some sleep," said the fireman. "That was about midnight. She said, 'No.'"

"Then I saw her step to the white topped table and begin to write. She still was writing when I fell asleep. I don't know what happened after that. I knew nothing until I was awakened by the shots."

RADIO STOCK SOARS TO $400 IN NEW YORK MARKET BOOM

After Reaching New High Mark,
Issue Loses 12 Points; Record Set on Curb.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Disregarding a renewal rate of 8 per cent on call money, the stock market started on another wild "bull" rampage this afternoon, when more than 20 issues were whirled upward $5 to more than $30 a share.

Radio was the spectacular feature, soaring $35.50 to a new high record for all time at $400. Total sales were 6,356,600 shares, the fourth largest in the history of the market. Profit taking in the closing sales was readily absorbed, although Radio lost more than 12 points of its gain. The ticker ran 49 minutes after the close.

The Curb market experienced an even more violent bull movement, relatively, than the Exchange, piling up a record total of sales of 3,460,400 shares. Its ticker fell more than an hour behind.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Admiral Frank F. Fletcher, U. S. N., retired, died today in St. Lukes Hospital at the age of 73.

Admiral Fletcher, a native of Iowa, commanded the forces which seized Vera Cruz in 1914. He was inventor of the Fletcher breech mechanism and gun mounts.

CORONER IS NAMED WITH BOSWELL IN U. S. INDICTMENT

George Bell Also Accused of Part in Williamson County's Alleged Liquor Conspiracy.

RECENT TRUE BILL IS MADE PUBLIC

Details Had Been Held Up
Pending Price Murder Trial, Which Was Continued.

CORONER GEORGE BELL of Williamson County (Ill.) who with State's Attorney Arlie O. Boswell was a leader in the Ku Klux Klan cleanup movement in that county, is included along with Boswell in a list of nine defendants in the whisky conspiracy indictment returned recently by the Federal grand jury in East St. Louis and made public yesterday.

The fact that Boswell had been indicted was published two weeks ago. The particulars of the true bill were not made public however, because United States Attorney Baker feared it might hamper Boswell in the trial of Art Newman, Freddie Wooten and Riley Simmons, Birger gangsters, for the murder of Mrs. Ethel Price, wife of State Highway Patrolman Lory L. Price, both of whom were slain by Birger gangsters.

When the trial, originally set for last Monday, was continued until Dec. 17, however, the indictment was made public and with it the fact that Coroner Bell was included among the defendants. Bell was defeated last summer for reelection and leaves office next Monday when Boswell, who was defeated for renomination, also will be superseded.

Others included in the indictment are Hezlie Byrn, former Chief of Police of Johnston City and a member of the anti-klan party in the county in 1925; Connie Ritter, a Birger lieutenant now in the State penitentiary; and under indictment for the Price murders and the murder of Mayor Joe Adams of West City; Freddie Wooten, formerly Newman's closest friend; Charles Schafer, also known as "Chink," proprietor of a roadhouse north of the city; and Thomas Boyd, former Chief of Police of Marion, and Pete Saimo and Samuel Dominic Loni, who are alleged to be liquor traffic operators in Williamson County.

Assistant United States Attorney Leonard announced that the prosecution hoped to bring the defendants to trial before Christmas. There may be some difficulty in carrying out that plan, however, since Wooten and Newman, the latter the Government's most important witness, are to be tried for the Price murder on Dec. 17. Wooten also is scheduled to be tried at Greenville, Ill., on Dec. 10 for the Pocahontas bank robbery. In addition the Court already has set aside the day for trial of 72 defendants named in a liquor conspiracy indictment in Alexander County.

The true bill includes 14 overt acts by which the Government hopes to prove the existence of a conspiracy. In one of them Boswell and three others are charged with transporting a large quantity of liquor from Marion to Harrisburg in May, 1926.

Although the indictment goes into no greater detail the charges are based upon the disappearance from Marion of 250 cases of whisky taken by National Guardsmen in a raid on a farm house near Marion. After the liquor had vanished Boswell said it had been taken out at night and destroyed in the city incinerator. A county grand jury investigating the case found no trace of burned whisky cases and only a few broken bottles at the incinerator, although 6000 bottles were missing.

Another alleged overt act set forth in the indictment is that Birger, Newman and Schafer collected money from roadhouses and saloons for immunity from prosecution and that Boswell got a portion of it.

Bond for the defendants has been set at $10,000, to be given before the United States Commissioner at Benton.

Both Bell and Boswell charge political enemies with securing their indictment.

The maximum penalty for conspiracy is two years in the penitentiary and a fine of $10,000.

KING PASSES A 'FAIR DAY'; SLEEPS AFTER QUIET NIGHT; WALES ON WAY TO BEDSIDE

Official Statement of the King's Illness and His Condition

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—A letter from the King's physician, Lord Dawson of Penn, submitted to the Cabinet this morning and ordered published, said that King George was suffering from inflammation—congestion—of the right lung, with extensive plastic pleurisy on the right side.

There must be anxiety, the letter said, due to the infection, which naturally must be serious. The condition of the lung, however, was somewhat improved, and the letter pointed out that the King's strength had been maintained.

Lord Dawson stated that the illness thus far was being controlled and its force lessened, and that he hoped its duration would be curtailed.

The letter was dated at Buckingham Palace at 9 o'clock this morning.

A leading St. Louis physician said today that inflammation and congestion of the right lung means pneumonia in that lung, and plastic pleurisy an inflammation of the pleura or covering of the lung which always accompanies pneumonia. He added that this would indicate the King had pneumonia from the beginning of his illness and it had so developed that his advanced age was against recovery.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—The earth is 592,000,000,000,000,000 tons heavier than had hitherto been supposed.

Dr. Paul R. Heyl of the United States Bureau of Standards at Washington announced the revised figures in a speech at Cooper Union last night. Five years ago he set about the task of weighing the earth to get a result more exact than the estimate of six sextillion—the figure followed by 21 ciphers—tons, arrived at about 30 years ago by an English scientist, and a retired Jesuit in a Bohemian monastery, working independently.

Dr. Heyl's calculations indicate the earth weighs somewhat more than six sextillion, 592 quintillion tons.

ROYAL PARTY RIDES IN SUBWAY

Swedish Count in New York to Wed Miss Manville.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Count Folke Bernadotte and Royal members of his wedding party from Sweden think Americans are a "magnificently energetic people." They got the impression from a ride in the subway. Scorning the limousines provided for them by H. E. Manville, whose daughter Estelle the Count is to marry Saturday, the visiting Prince and Counts went down in the subway "just for the ride." Hanging by straps and jostling along with the crowds, they rode downtown, having what they described as a "delightful time."

The downtown terminus of their ride was the Woolworth building, where they followed the "Rubberneck Trail" to the tower "to see if the city looks as wonderful from above as she does from the sidewalks." There Prince Gustaf Adolf, his brother, Prince Sigvard, the Count and other notables rubbed elbows for half an hour, although making the maximum speed possible on this single line of tortuous railway, must have seemed to him to be literally crawling toward the coast.

Describing incidents of the last few hours at Dodoma, Sir Percival wrote:

"They were more poignant to the few people who saw and talked to the Prince immediately after his arrival at Dodoma from the bush, for his happiness and relief on learning, as he thought, that his father was out of danger was extremely touching. He drove through the native bazaar and there was a smile on his tanned face as he swung his car with expert hand to drive to the Provincial Commissioner's residence, where the Commissioner was waiting to receive him. He jumped out of the car with an air of elation which made glad the hearts of his friends."

Before dinner an important cipher message was decoded. This was followed quickly by other messages from London, the contents of which caused the Prince deepest concern. He ate no dinner and made a brave effort to maintain his normal manner. He also resolutely refused to permit cancellation of an informal dance which was planned at the hotel.

PRINCE OF WALES ARRIVES AT PORT TO BOARD CRUISER

Slow Train, Drawn by Desert From Hunt.

By the Associated Press.

DAR-ES-SALAAM, TANGANYIKA, Nov. 28.—The Prince of Wales, speeding to the bedside of his father, King George, arrived here late today and went to Government House. He is expected to board a cruiser here to return to England. The cruiser now is on the way from Aden.

No official reception was held, but the Governor and the Chief Secretary of Tanganyika Territory met the Prince at the station. A great crowd of Europeans, Indians and natives jostled and elbowed to get a good view of the Prince. The heir apparent was dressed in his Safari hunting kit. He doffed his helmet in acknowledgment of the cheering.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—Advices from Cape Town today told of the Prince of Wales beginning in the early hours of the morning his long journey from Tanganyika to the bedside of his father, King George.

Sir Percival Phillips, special correspondent of the Daily Mail and the Evening News with the royal party in Africa, sent a graphic description of the Prince's progress in his private train drawn by a wood-burning engine which had to halt every hour for more fuel.

"When dawn broke today the Prince of Wales, who had left Dodoma for Dar-es-Salaam, on the coast, in his special train, looked out of the windows of his saloon on to the parched African desert plains which lay dreary and desolate beneath the sunless sky," wrote Sir Percival. "His night had been a sleepless one. His train, although making the maximum speed possible on this single line of tortuous railway, must have seemed to him to be literally crawling toward the coast."

Describing incidents of the last few hours at Dodoma, Sir Percival wrote:

"They were more poignant to the few people who saw and talked to the Prince immediately after his arrival at Dodoma from the bush, for his happiness and relief on learning, as he thought, that his father was out of danger was extremely touching. PRINCE RETURNING ON OWN VOLITION

Crowds Continue to Watch Bulletins Posted in Front of Palace—Sickroom Full of Flowers.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—The 8:30 p. m. bulletin issued by King George's physicians, said:

"The King passed a fair day, with some sleep. Otherwise conditions are unchanged."

With the Prince of Wales about to undertake the long journey home from East Africa to be at the bedside of his father, little if any change was indicated in the King's condition by this morning's bulletin.

The medical bulletin of Sir Stanley Hewitt and Lord Dawson of Penn, the King's doctors, said: "The King passed a quieter night. His temperature and general condition remain as before."

Public Anxiety Relaxes.
This statement coupled with last night's bulletin saying that the King's temperature was lower and that his strength was maintained gave additional encouragement to millions of his anxious subjects. They read in these brief bulletins indications that their King at least was holding his own in a difficult stage of his illness.

This morning's bulletin was regarded as favorable by the palace officials, among whom a general feeling of satisfaction at its nature. Sir Stanley and Lord Dawson remained in the palace about an hour and a half. Their visit was shorter than usual and they left about 11 o'clock, shortly after their bulletin had been issued.

The physicians returned to the palace soon after 1:30 p. m. It was around 3 p. m. when the doctors left the palace after their second visit.

Large Crowd Greets Queen.
A few minutes later a royal motor car took the Queen, Princess Mary and the Duchess of York for their usual afternoon drive. The Queen smilingly acknowledged the greetings of a large crowd, which, despite the chill of late autumn, had assembled about the palace.

It was announced that the Duke and Duchess of York would both fill engagements this evening. Cardinal Bourne, Archbishop of Westminster, issued a notice earnestly requesting that prayers be offered in all Roman Catholic Churches, especially on Sunday, for the speedy recovery of the King and his complete restoration to health.

Meanwhile there was intense interest in the decision of the Prince of Wales to return home. Dispatches from South Africa telling of his movements and the plans for a rapid journey are read eagerly throughout Great Britain.

South African messages this morning saying that the Prince's decision was due to his receipt of a cablegram indicating the necessity of his return were met by reiterated statements in official circles in London that his decision was taken on his own initiative.

Home Secretary Calls Twice.
Sir William Joynson-Hicks, the Home Secretary, called twice at the palace. This morning he saw the doctors and then returned to the palace at noon, being there when the physicians returned for their second visit.

Public sympathy with the sick King has been expressed by the masses of flowers arriving daily at Buckingham Palace. Decoration of the King's bedroom is under the supervision of the Queen, who arranges the flowers each morning. Yesterday she chose deep red roses sent by an intimate friend, who said he had heard the red rose was the Queen's good luck flower.

INSPECTOR SAYS HE DID NOT LOWER BOATS OF VESTRIS

Edward Keane at Inquiry, Repeats Acknowledgment That He Falsified Report in This Respect.

TRUTH MIGHT HAVE PREVENTED SAILING

It Would Probably Have Interfered With Issuance of Clearance Papers to the Liner.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Most of today's session of the Federal inquiry into the loss of the liner Vestris was taken up with the testimony of Edward Keane, an inspector of hulls of the United States Steamboat Inspection Service of the Department of Commerce. He went over in great detail testimony about his inspection of the Vestris which he gave last week before the separate inquiry being conducted by the inspection service.

He told again that although he had not actually lowered the lifeboats to the water, as is required in an annual inspection, he had reported in his official report that he had done this. He admitted that his report was not true in this respect but said that he had satisfied himself by other means that the boats were serviceable and so had thought his report justified.

Keane acknowledged that if he had made a truthful report of his inspection the Vestris should not have been issued clearance papers on its last voyage.

Crew Ignored Orders, Second Mate Testified.

Harry Wheeler, superintendent of the Lamport & Holt lines, operators of the Vestris, testified yesterday that, if the Vestris put to sea on its fatal voyage with no covers on the hatches, the liner was unseaworthy.

Testifying at the Federal inquiry into the disaster in which 110 lives were lost Nov. 12 off the Virginia Capes, Wheeler agreed with Capt. Jesso, American naval expert, that with the seas coming up it was "the first duty of a sea-going captain" to improvise hatch covers.

Reginald Dickson, sixth engineer on the Vestris, testified at the Department of Commerce hearing before Dickerson N. Hoover, supervising inspector-general of the steamboat inspection service, that when all hands were needed most to keep the engine running, the stokehold gang was on deck.

"For God's sake, boys," Dickson quoted Capt. Carey as saying to the stokers, "go below and lend a hand."

Deck Officers Stoked Boilers.

The men started, Dickson said, but once out of sight of the captain hurried to other parts of the vessel. As a result deck officers needed to direct the abandonment of the ship were obliged to stoke the boilers.

Leslie Watson, 25-year-old second officer of the Vestris told the story of how Capt. Carey went down with his ship.

Watson was hurt so badly in the disaster that he had been unable to leave his hospital bed until yesterday to testify before United States Commissioner Francis A. O'Neill.

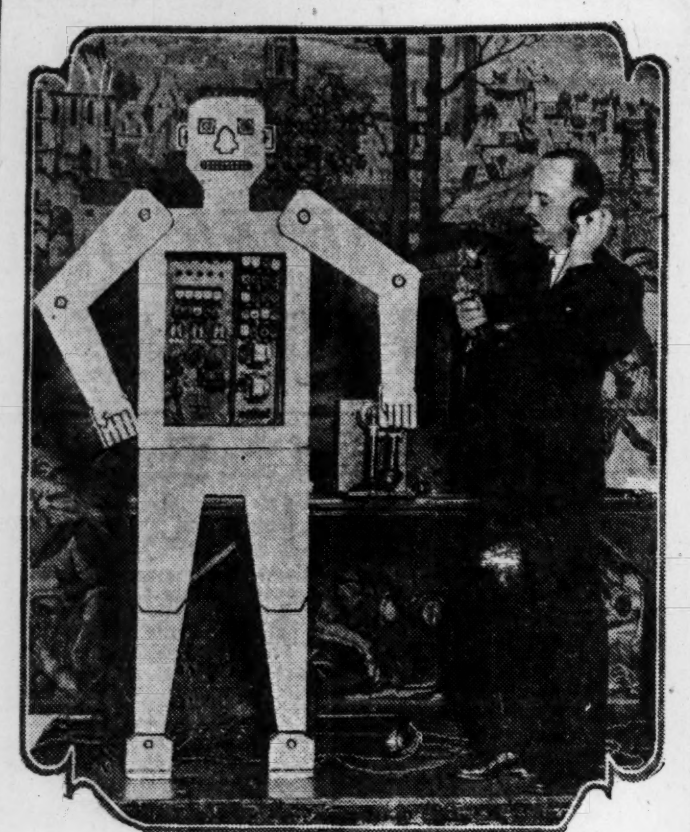

"After lowering No. 6 boat to within about eight feet of the sea," Watson said, "I went to No. 8 boat. Capt. Carey and the first officer were already there. We lowered No. 8 down just clear of a hot-water exhaust pipe on the ship's side. We couldn't lower it any more, or they (the women and children in the boat) would have been scalded by the water. I sent two men to get a cover for it (the pipe), so we could lower the boat into the water, but they disappeared and I never saw them again."

"Capt. Carey and I stood on the deck. I was about to jump from the promenade rail, but he made me change my mind. We walked down the ship's side together, by No. 8 boat, which was standing on its keel."

Ship Capsized.

"Then the ship capsized. I was carried down by the suction, holding on to Capt. Carey. I lost my grip. Finally, I came to the surface. There was no sign of a boat. Capt. Carey never did come to the surface."

Mr. Televox Obeys Master and Goes to Work at Order

"Mr. Televox," electrical manikin, and his master, James L. McCoy, who put him through his paces at Hotel Statler in a demonstration for the St. Louis Electrical Board of Trade.

In Demonstration at Hotel Statler, Electrical Manikin Turns on Lights and Blows Klaxon.

A grotesque electrical manikin, on the seventeenth floor of Hotel Statler yesterday, turned on electric lights, set in motion a sweep and a fan, and blew a klaxon in response to the wheeze of a pitch-pipe.

It was the completely constructed "electrical man" of the Westinghouse company, with heart and lungs made of coils, magnetic vibrators, and special light tubes—the first embodiment of the principle of control of inanimate objects by means of sound.

"Mr. Televox"—as the manikin is called, cannot understand ordinary speech. But he can hear electrically three different notes—a high, a low and a middle register—and he is so constructed that hearing one of his favorite notes, he will immediately begin to do things.

Starts by Telephone Call.

For instance, James L. McCoy, Mr. Televox' master, will first get the manikin's attention by dialing a special number on his telephone. When the manikin's telephone is off its hook, McCoy will blow a single low note on the pitch pipe into his telephone mouthpiece.

Immediately, the interior of the manikin is disturbed with sudden flashings of light, sparks, the click of changing circuits. McCoy pushes the receiver to his ear and listens.

"Bzz-bzz-bzz," says Mr. Televox. (This means: "I'm ready if you give another signal.")

McCoy blows the pitch pipe again and Mr. Televox responds with a loud scratch on his klaxon horn. This is what McCoy has asked him to do.

McCoy will again dial his electrical slave, and this time will dispatch a high note into the telephone mouthpiece. The high note is the command to start the electric sweeper. In a second the sweeper has begun humming. The middle note is the command for Televox to turn on a bridge lamp when he hears the pitch pipe he doesn't hesitate. The lamp is lighted immediately.

Can Do Five Things.

The manikin's actions, as described by McCoy, are simple. The pitch-pipe note, he says, is passed through a delicate tongue of steel. The tongue vibrates, the sound is amplified and a system of electrical relays thereby is thrown into operation. There are five specific relays within Mr. Televox's system of electrical nerves, so that down a foot, what is increasing the list?

A little later, he continued, he was told to stand by the lifeboats. "During the whole time," he continued, "Captain Carey was in complete control and issuing orders to his men and to the first officer and myself."

Wheeler said that the fracture of one or more sea connections on the steamer was the most likely reason why water entered the hold. Presenting a written report on his own inquiry into the sinking he explained the Vestris had two sanitary outlets, one on each side and both a foot below the load water line.

A valve kept the water out of each, he said, but if one of these was carried away water could have entered the vessel. The valves were in good condition when the ship sailed, he asserted.

Wheeler further declared that he knew the Vestris was "tight and seaworthy" when she sailed from New York and that the explanation for her loss "must be found in occurrences after sailing."

ONE MAN KILLED AND OTHER HURT IN KILN EXPLOSION

Charles Brayler Loses Life in Unexplained Accident at Adams Metalware Company.

Charles Brayler, 52 years old, of 3012B Easton avenue, was killed at 3:15 p. m. today when an enamel kiln exploded at the S. G. Adams Metalware Co., 2940 Franklin avenue. Brayler was operating the kiln, was killed outright, and Louis Hughes, of 1623B Franklin avenue, who was standing near by, suffered cuts on the head.

A small fire which followed the explosion was quickly extinguished. No theory as to the cause of the accident was advanced.

Hughes was taken to the St. Louis Baptist Hospital, across the street from the metalware company.

EX-PRESIDENT OF BANK GETS FOUR MONTHS AS BOOTLEGGER

Charles Gundon of Sesser, Ill., Also Fined $400; Eight Months for Pete Marlow of Herrin.

Charles Gundon, former president of the State Bank at Sesser, Ill., and operator of a saloon there, pleaded guilty before Federal Judge Wham in East St. Louis yesterday of violating the liquor laws and was fined $400 and sentenced to four months in jail. His bartender, Peter Marco, was given the same sentence and fine.

William Lewis, co-operator with Mrs. Ethel Noble of a saloon in East St. Louis, won leniency through his 20 years of service in the Army when he was sentenced to 30 days and fined $25. Mrs. Noble was sentenced to 60 days and fined $50.

Others who pleaded guilty of liquor law violations and their sentences: Joseph Pietrowski, East St. Louis, $50 and 30 days; Samuel Fogie, Weaver, Ill., $1 and 30 days; John Gilbert, East St. Louis, $200 and 60 days; Hilary Lancaster, $75 and four months; Lulu May Lancaster, his wife, $50; J. W. Brown, Johnson City, $100 and 90 days; George McDonald, Johnson City, $100 and 90 days; Peter Marlow, Herrin, $1200 and eight months, for second offense; George Dumovich, Fairmont City, $100 and 30 days; Mrs. Noor Donovan, Fairmont City, $75 and 90 days; Lewis Surber, East St. Louis, $25 and 30 days; $200 and 60 days; Minnie Herrin, $150 and 90 days.

KATE O'HARE'S DIVORCED HUSBAND TO WED TODAY

License Is Issued to Frank P. O'Hare, Also Miss Irene M. Reynolds.

A marriage license has been issued to Frank P. O'Hare, 3129A Shenandoah avenue, divorced husband of Kate Richards O'Hare, political radical, and Miss Irene M. Reynolds, 2303 Minnesota avenue. O'Hare said they would be married today at Clayton.

Kate Richards O'Hare obtained a divorce in Arkansas last June. They had been married 26 years and have four grown children.

O'Hare said she had long desired a divorce, which he did not contest. They founded an experimental school of liberal arts at Mena, Ark., where Mrs. O'Hare resided, while O'Hare lived here. He said she now is in California preparing to start a school similar to that at Mena.

In 1916 and 1920 Kate Richards O'Hare was the unsuccessful candidate for the vice presidential nomination on the Socialist ticket.

In 1919-20 she served 14 months of a 5-year sentence in the Missouri State Penitentiary under the war-time espionage act growing out of a radical speech at the United States had entered the World War.

CONGRESSMAN C. L. FAUST STRICKEN WITH PARALYSIS

Right Arm and Leg Affected; Attributed to Exertion of Campaign.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Representative Charles L. Faust (Rep.), St. Joseph, Mo., was stricken with partial paralysis of the right side today and was taken to an emergency hospital.

The stroke was caused apparently by exertion during the recent campaign. Faust returned to Washington a week ago and complained of slight fatigue. Dr. E. B. Clements, Republican National Committeeman for Missouri, urged him at the time to go to a hospital but Faust said he usually felt "run-down" after a campaign and would recover soon. At the hospital it was said that the paralysis had attacked merely the right arm and leg. Faust is attended by Dr. Clements and Dr. J. Ernest Mitchell, a local physician.

GROUP TO WORK FOR RE-ELECTION OF MAYOR MILLER

Isaac A. Hedges Announces He Will Be Chairman of Committee Backing His Candidacy.

Formation of a campaign committee to sponsor the candidacy of Mayor Miller for re-nomination at the March primary is under way, was learned yesterday with the announcement of Isaac A. Hedges, manager of the Cupples Station properties of Washington University, that he is to be its chairman.

Carl Stifel, son of the late Otto F. Stifel, will be treasurer of the Committee, but the remainder of its personnel will not be announced until 10 days hence, Hedges said today. The committee will include several hundred business and professional men.

Hedges has been active for years in Republican politics, and supported Henry W. Kiel in three successful campaigns for the Mayoralty. Kiel is considering the advisability of running against Miller for the nomination, and is expected to make his decision public within a few days.

In explanation of his support of Mayor Miller in the present campaign, Hedges said today that he regarded the Mayor as an efficient city official who deserved to be returned to office because "he has done a good job and has been diligent and active in behalf of the people."

Mayor Miller has admitted for several months that he intends to be a candidate, and publicly made an indirect reference to his intentions at a recent meeting of the Twenty-sixth Ward organization. The organization of the Twenty-eighth Ward, in which Miller resides, has endorsed him for re-nomination.

Kiel, it is understood, will not enter the race unless he has the support of City Collector Koe, who controls a substantial organization strength in every ward in the city. If Kiel should decide not to file, politicians expect that President Walter J. G. Neun of the Board of Aldermen or Alderman Edward L. Kuba of the First Ward, or both, may enter the race.

Stephen M. Wagner, former member of the Board of Education, has announced he will be a candidate in the Republican primary.

Meanwhile, Kiel already has received the endorsement of several organizations, although his final decision has not been announced. Among them is the Geraldine-Palm Improvement Association, which voted its endorsement of the former Mayor last night.

CONDITION OF KING UNCHANGED; WALES ON HIS WAY HOME

grapes stands by the King's bedside. He is a great lover of flowers and has been much cheered by their presence and the sympathetic messages they convey.

The Daily Mail said today that one of the reasons the doctors were making prolonged visits to the palace was that they had difficulty in drafting the official bulletins. Some of the three-line announcements had taken from a half to three-quarters of an hour to prepare, the doctors being anxious that they neither exaggerate nor minimize the danger of the King's condition.

The morning newspapers did not read into the bulletins more than the physicians stated and the Daily News urged confidence in the doctors in this respect, concluding its remarks with the words: "Believe the bulletins."

Prince to Return Soon.

Prime Minister Baldwin received a cablegram sent by the Prince from Dodoma, Tanganyika, saying: "In view of the illness of His Majesty, the King, my brother and I are returning to England as soon as possible."

The Admiralty directed the fast light cruiser Enterprise to proceed from Aden to Dar-es-Salaam and there hold herself at the disposal of the Prince. Dodoma is Grade Crossing Elimination Policy Advocated by I. C. C.

Replacement of Wooden Coaches Also Proposed as Safety Measure — Automatic Train Controls Order Revoked.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—The Interstate Commerce Commission has decided to refrain from compelling railroads to make further installations of automatic train control devices or block signals. The decision was announced today in a report concluding an investigation into the present status of automatic signals and devices, and the statement indicated the commission considered that safety on railroads could be promoted by elimination of grade crossings, the betterment of bridges and the replacement of wooden passenger cars.

Three years ago the commission, despite the protest of many railroads, ordered extensive installations on all first-class roads of train control devices intended to automatically halt a train when a stop signal is disregarded.

"It has been shown in this case that the number of accidents and casualties which result from disregard of signal indications is relatively small, in comparison with those which result from other causes," the commission's report said. "We, therefore, believe that vigorous efforts to provide adequate protection against the larger number of accidents which arise from such causes will afford a greater measure of safety than requiring by order special efforts to extend train control installation. For that reason we have concluded not to require, by order at the present time, further installation of train stop or train control devices."

"The carriers should be diligent in their efforts to provide adequate protection against accidents due to grade crossings, derailments, collisions in territory not protected by block signals, failure of wooden bridges, and the use of wooden passenger train cars which have been repeatedly mentioned in our recommendations to Congress. We shall expect them to undertake the necessary studies and tests to bring about standardization of designs and methods of installation of train stop and train control devices so that they may be used in terminal areas and on joint tracks where traffic density is greater."

The Daily Mail said that Aden was 2000 miles from Dar-es-Salaam and the cruiser, which has a speed of 33 knots, presumably would take the Prince through the Red Sea to Brindisi, Italy, from which point he would travel overland to Dar-es-Salaam in about four days. The overland trip from Brindisi to London would take about 27 hours.

The Mail did not consider the possibility of the Prince taking an airplane for any part of his journey. It appeared possible that a plane could be sent from Cairo, Egypt, or Basra, Iraq, to meet the Prince at any place he selected but so far as was known today no such arrangements had been made.

Although the telegram received by the Prime Minister showed that the Prince of Wales was in touch with his younger brother, it was not known in London just where the Duke of Gloucester was or how soon he could join the Prince. They went on separate hunting trips early in October.

In an editorial discussing the Prince's decision to return, the Daily News said: "It is obvious that in the happy circumstances the King will have a prolonged rest during a period of convalescence and that it may be desirable for him to forego the strain of many public engagements and other official tasks."

"It is natural that he should wish for the presence of his eldest son and that the Prince wish to be with his father. The Prince's speedy return will inevitably assist the King's recovery and will everywhere be regarded as earnest of

Do this at the first sign of a cold. Put some MISTOL up your nose—or gargle a little—and you'll get immediate relief. Mistol acts on inflamed membranes. Reduces swelling. Soothes irritation. SCHOOL PROPAGANDA ASSAILED BY A. F. OF L.

Resolution Directs Study of Textbooks in Fight Against Interests.

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 28.—William Green was re-elected unanimously today as president of the American Federation of Labor. All other officers, including Frank Morrison, secretary, also were re-elected.

The convention adopted a resolution "opposing the use of public schools to spread propaganda of special interests." The resolution, which was introduced by Florence Curtis Hanson of the American Federation of Teachers, said:

"Exposures of the Federal Trade Commission have shown that the interests are seeking every opportunity to use the public schools to spread their propaganda, and it has also been shown that there is gross misuse of the conception of research institutes posing as research institutes being in reality propaganda institutes subsidized by special interests."

In adopting the resolution, the convention substituted "special interest" for "power interests" as contained in the original.

The American Federation of Labor has always had active and vigorous use of the schools and universities of the country for propaganda of any nature, the resolution added. It then resolved that the Federation "Go on record as unalterably opposed to all efforts of private and public service corporations and of real estate boards and other private corporations to inject overt propaganda into the public schools and universities."

It directed the Federation's standing committee on education to continue its studies of textbooks used in tax supported schools with these considerations especially in mind and to forward their findings to the Federation and affiliated unions. The resolution was adopted with only one dissenting vote.

Toronto, Canada, was chosen for the next annual convention of the American Federation of Labor.

WIDOW MISSING; POLICE WORK ON MURDER THEORY

Mrs. Ellen Rogers, 29, of Louisville, Ky., Disappeared Oct. 7 After Bidding Banker Good-by.

STRANGE ASH FOUND IN FURNACE

With Discovery of Stained Wrench in Basement
Apartment House Janitor
Is Held for Questioning.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 28.—
Just as Hal Harned, a young banker of Dawson Springs, Ky., was saying good night to Mrs. Ella McDowell Rogers, 29 years old, a well-to-do widow, with whom he had dined the night of Oct. 7, the lights in her fashionable apartment house suddenly went out.

A taxicab was waiting in front of the door for Harned, so his hostess said:
"Go ahead. Don't bother about the lights. It's just a blown-out fuse or something. I'll have them fixed in a jiffy."

Harned did not wait. The taxicab driver who took him away
has borne out that fact.

But from the moment he said
good-by until yesterday, police have been unable to find any one who has seen Mrs. Rogers. Dues have been collected in her apartment. The half-empty dinner dishes still are on the table set for two where Harned and Mrs.
Rogers dined.

Mrs. Rogers' safe deposit box in a Louisville bank has been untouched. Her bank account has not been drawn on.

Think Woman Was Cremated.
In the fire of the furnace of the apartment house yesterday were found what police think to be charred human bones. The discovery has strengthened a growing suspicion that the young widow was murdered and her body cremated.

Additional weight is added to the murder theory by the finding in the basement of the apartment
house, where screams were heard the night Mrs. Rogers vanished, of a heavy stained wrench. A small piece of a bar pin also was taken from the furnace in the basement.

Philip Haynes, Negro janitor of the apartment house, who has been held in jail during the investigation of Mrs. Rogers' disappearance, was arraigned yesterday on an old charge and his case continued until Dec. 4.

Samples of the ash-like substance which Chief of Detectives Farberly said may be of human bones are being examined.

Wallace McDowell, of Cincinnati, brother of Mrs. Rogers and a licensed embalmer said, after seeing the ashes: "My son was cremated and the ashes greatly resembled the substance just taken from the fire."

A furnace expert to whom the ashes were shown told the police
he had never seen a similar substance in a furnace flue.

Body of Suicide Unidentified.
It was definitely established that the body of a young woman who committed suicide at Elkhardt, Ind., and whose description tallied closely with Mrs. Rogers' was not that of the missing widow. The identity of the dead woman remains unsolved.

Louisville detectives made public an account of happenings at the apartment house the night
Mrs. Rogers disappeared. Charles Lanforn, resident of the same building, informed them that on the night of Oct. 7 tenants heard moans coming from the unlighted
basement.

"After I heard the screams,
which also were heard by other tenants," he said, "I went down
as far as the head of the steps leading into the basement. I heard gasps for breath and moans.

"The basement was dark and I hesitated about going there unarmed to make further investigation. When I told my wife about what I had heard she objected to my going into the basement and persuaded me to remain in our apartment.

"I walked through the hall and passed the open door of another apartment whose occupants also had heard the sounds and were discussing them."

Woman Mysteriously Disappears

MRS. ELLA McDOWELL ROGERS.

who has been or heard from her since Oct. 7.

Personal Belongings Untouched.
Search of her rooms by police disclosed all her clothing, except one of her oldest dresses and one discarded hat, still hanging in the closets. All her personal belongings are in their customary places.
Haynes, the janitor, who was on duty the night Mrs. Rogers was last seen, told police he had received no report from any tenant of any trouble with the lights in the building. No blown out fuse has been discovered; but it is reported that several bulbs in the Rogers apartment were so loosely fixed in their sockets that a slight twist might have thrown off the lights.

Miss Lorraine Smith, a friend of the missing woman, has told police that she talked with Mrs. Rogers the afternoon of Oct. 7 and that she said nothing about plans to go to Chicago.

GETS FIVE YEARS FOR SHOOTING WIFE; ACCIDENTAL SHE SAYS

Guy Mathis Convicted by Jury of Assault; Neighbor Tells of Hearing Threat.

Guy Mathis, 24 years old, of Prospect Hill, was sentenced today
to five years in the penitentiary
by a jury in Circuit Judge Mulloy's court at Clayton for assaulting his wife, Bertha, 37, with intent to kill on Jan. 14, last, although Mrs.
Mathis, who has recovered from a bullet wound in the chest, protested that the shooting was accidental.

Mrs. Dora Spizer, employed by Mrs. Mathis in a boarding house, poolroom and saloon she operated in Prospect Hill, testified she heard
Mr. and Mrs. Mathis quarreling and heard Mrs. Mathis cry out,
"Don't!"

Mrs. Spizer's husband, B. F.
Spizer, testified that two hours before the shooting he saw Mathis threatening his wife with a pistol
and persuaded him to put the weapon away. Deputy Constable Rudy Baumer, then a Deputy Sheriff, said Mrs. Mathis begged him not to let Mathis out on bond for fear he would kill her.

FINDS NO TRACE OF ARSENIC IN MEEKER BOY'S VISCERA

Dr. R. B. H. Gradwohl, biological chemist, reported to Deputy Coroner Dever today that he had found no traces of arsenic in the viscera of Michael Meeker Jr., 14 years old, whose body was exhumed in Calvary cemetery Monday to dispose of the suspicion that he had been poisoned. Dr. Gradwohl said he would complete his analysis
for arsenic within a few days.

The investigation is being made at the request of Prosecuting Attorney Mueller of St. Louis County. The boy's father is in jail at Clayton awaiting trial on a charge of murdering his son to collect $4500 life insurance. The boy's stepmother has charged that Meeker told her that he, not robbers, had shot the boy July 4, 1927. The lad died July 19, 1927, apparently of tetanus from his wounds.

grounds seldom in recent years.
It is recalled that when the war
started he left to register as an
alien, and several years ago a
doctor who had once been connected with the institution called
to take him for an automobile ride.

Belger was confirmed in the Episcopal faith in 1904, Bishop Tuttle making a special trip to the hospital to officiate.

Funeral services were held this afternoon at an undertaker's establishment at 3710 North Grand
boulevard. He was buried in

WHY HOLDUP MEN RETURNED $20,000 LOOT IS A MYSTERY

Negotiations for Refund of Money Taken From St.
Paul Armored Auto Begun by Agent of Robbers.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
ST. PAUL, MINN., Nov. 28.— Apparently voluntary return by the robbers of $20,000 loot from the Sweeney armored money car hold-up of Aug. 8, today became one of the strangest of police mysteries
as a member of the law firm
through which the loot was returned disclosed that negotiations
for the recovery of the money
were begun by an envoy of the robbers themselves.

While police today were ordered to put forth all efforts to apprehend the robbers, Guy T. Mordant, attorney of the law firm of Sexton, Mordant & Kennedy, today told of a tall, slender stranger who came to him
two weeks ago and negotiated for the return of the $20,000 taken in the robbery.

The man, Mordant said, came to him without an introduction and gave a name that he thinks was fictitious. He said there were no promises of immunity from arrest or prosecution for the bandits, and is at a loss to ascribe the reasons which prompted the stranger to offer to return the money.

Grand Jury to Investigate.
That the grand jury will take up an investigation into the return of the loot was indicated today. Individual members of the grand jury said such an investigation ought to be undertaken and the question will be raised when the grand jury meets Dec. 6.

County Attorney C. D. O'Brien Jr., before leaving this morning for a trip North, stated that on his return he would hold some conferences with a view to ascertaining
what happened in the negotiations for the return of the loot.

"I know nothing of the matter except what I have read in the newspapers," O'Brien said. "Chief of Police Murnane, who is sick at home, called me over the phone
this morning and said he would like to discuss the situation with me."

Lawyer Tells of Negotiations.
The statement given by Mor-dant, relating the course of the negotiations for the return of the loot follows: "A man, whose name
I refuse to reveal at this time because he asked it to be strictly confidential, approached me two weeks ago in my office and asked me if I would handle a deal in which the stolen money would be returned by the robbers."

Belger long ago recovered from that illness, but early in his stay he had so endeared himself to attaches of the hospital that he readily consented when he expressed a wish to remain. He was born in Germany and had no relatives in this country. He became a handy man about the institution during his early days there,
earning his keep by marking linen,
installing screens, running errands, and doing other light tasks.

Hospital Record His Biography.
City hospital patients' histories are usually dull records of temperatures, blood pressures, and other technically useful medical data. Belger's is his biography. It tells the story of how he spent his years in making trivial gifts to present to the nurses and doctors
on their birthdays and at Christmas. Pin cushions for the nurses and green velvet skull caps for the doctors were his favorite gifts.

The most appropriate made in return were postcards for his collection and each notable addition is duly recorded.

A series of entries back in 1907
start with, "Patient is improving—as a needle-man. Still making cushions for nurses."

And on succeeding days:
"B. made a cushion for me. Still plying his trade."
"Finished another." "Working on another." "Still at it."

After Christmas there was the notation: "Belger received about 30 postcards. He is very happy and contented and makes everybody else so."

In 1921 a complication developed. A doctor wrote in his history, "The prognosis in Belger's case is guarded. The element of hope has interrupted the course of the dear old man's chronic ailment.
His only words are 'Ach, Caroline is a fine woman.' No explanation is made of who Caroline was diagnosed as an "institution."

A doctor in 1925, who was leaving the hospital, wrote into the history his estimate of Belger. "He is an institution," he said, "and should be so treated. Just like the head nurse, the broken window in the south ward, and the liquid

grounds seldom in recent years.
It is recalled that when the war
started he left to register as an
alien, and several years ago a
doctor who had once been connected with the institution called
to take him for an automobile ride.

Tuttle making a special trip to the
hospital to officiate.

Funeral services were held this
afternoon at an undertaker's establishment at 3710 North Grand
boulevard. He was buried in St. Matthew's cemetery by the Episcopal Mission Society which

CHILD IS FATALLY INJURED; CRUSHED UNDER STREET CAR

Daughter of Robert B. Miller, 6140 McPherson, Accidentally Pushed Under Trucks by Mother.

An umbrella which caught in a street car door contributed to the death yesterday afternoon of Mary-claire, 2½-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Miller, 6140 McPherson avenue, and granddaughter of Joseph E.
Muckerman, vice president and general manager of the Polar Wave Ice and Fuel Co. The girl was crushed under the wheel of an Olive-Delmar car at Delmar and Skinker boulevards.

Mrs. Miller was returning home from downtown with her daughters, Maryclaire and Janet, who is 4, when the accident occurred, at 12:45 p. m. Mrs. Miller suffered shock and was unable to make a statement, but an eye-witness account was obtained from Miss Theresa A. Whalen, 4127 Kennerly avenue, a telephone operator, who was going to work and got off the same car.

Mrs. Miller was the last passenger to leave the car at the Skinker stop, her children preceding her,
according to Miss Whalen. An umbrella was hanging by a strap from Mrs. Miller's left arm and as the conductor closed the door and the car started forward the umbrella was caught in the door.

Mrs. Miller stumbled and attempted to run alongside the car,
but lost her balance and bumped against Maryclaire. The child fell under the car and the front wheel
of the rear truck passed over her before the motorman stopped the car. The car was raised and the child was taken in a delivery truck to St. Mary's Hospital, where she died at 4:30 p. m. Her legs and right hand had been crushed.

Mrs. Miller, suffering from hysteria, bruises and laceration, accompanied her daughter to the hospital and remained there for treatment.

The motorman, C. J. Tucker, and conductor, Roy Hulse, were placed under bond to appear at the inquest at Kirkwood Friday morning. Tucker said he stopped his car as soon as the conductor gave him the three-bell emergency signal. Hulse said he closed the door and was unaware of anything wrong until a passenger, looking out of the window, informed him
Mrs. Miller's umbrella was caught in the door. He then signaled the motorman to stop the car.

Robert Miller, father of the child, is president of Carter Bros.
Inc. ice and fuel dealers.

PREDICTS BROADCASTING OF MOVIES IN FIVE YEARS

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—David Sarnoff, vice president and general manager of the Radio Corporation of America, predicted last night that television broadcasting on a scale comparable to present sound broadcasting will be achieved
within five years. Then, he added, the logical development will be motion pictures by radio.

Speaking at a dinner of the Economic Club of New York, he fore-casted also an early solution for such radio problems as static, fadeins and interference.

Faces of Robbers Hidden.
"I told him at that time that I would investigate the case for him and he could see me later on. No reason for the return of the stolen money taken in the robbery was forthcoming from this so-called agent."

"I then went to the surety companies which had to stand the loss
as a result of the robbery to find out their attitude in the matter.
Their reply was that they would like to see the handits under arrest
and prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law, but through my investigation with the surety companies, private detectives and others, I learned that although the men happened to be arrested, the victim of the gang of robbers
would be hardly probable as none of the victims in the robbery would be able to identify them."

"I found that two of the men wore gas masks, the others had caps pulled down over their eyes and the seven guards inside of the money car were so blinded by tear gas that they could not see and would not be able to identify any of the robber gang. Officers of the insurance companies scoffed at first at the idea that the money would be returned, but stated that if they could not get the robbers
the money would be all right, with a last word that 'There is no more Santa Claus.'"

"A week ago I met the 'agent'
again and this time he turned the money over to me, all in large denominations."

"Some of the money has been paid back and the rest of it still is held for further litigation."

90 DAYS FOR DRUNKEN DRIVER

Charles Moore, 625 South Broad-

fender of the law against driving and sentenced to 90 days in the workhouse by Police Judge Rose-can today when the charge was pressed against him.

Moore did not appear in court.

13 Motion Picture Stars Ill of Flu in Hollywood

Epidemic in Los Angeles Said to Be Mild, With Total of 2163 Cases in Month and 41 Deaths.

By the Associated Press.
HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 28.—
Thirteen more stars and two directors were confined to their beds
today with attacks of influenza.
What was described as a mild epidemic struck the film colony Sunday when Clara Bow and John Gilbert were brought down with the disease.

Others under physicians' care include Lois Wilson, Monte Blue, Mr.
and Mrs. Richard Barthelmess,
Mary Philbin, Loretta Young, Sally
Phillips, Jean Arthur, Ruth Taylor, William Haines and Buster Keaton, actors, and F. W. Murnau and Edward Sedgwick, directors.

In the metropolitan district of In-Los Angeles 592 new cases of influenza were reported yesterday,
making the total for the month 2163 cases. Deaths total 41. The Health Department said that closing of city schools was not contemplated. The peak of the epidemic is expected shortly.

In San Diego, Dr. A. E. Lessem,
City and County Health Officer, announced that he would issue an order today closing the city schools
for an indefinite period beginning
Dec. 2, because of the prevalence of influenza among the students.

Officers at the State Board of Health in Sacramento yesterday
said they were "unable to substantiate" newspaper reports that an epidemic of influenza existed in California.

INNOCENT MAN FREED AFTER SERVING 5 YEARS

Negro Said to Have Been Killed Turns Up Alive.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 28.—
Peter Thomas, Negro convict from Pemisic County, will be released from the Missouri penitentiary today on a parole issued by Gov.
Baker, after serving four years and 11 months for a murder that never in fact was committed, as the result of an investigation which disclosed the man he was supposed to have killed was alive.

Thomas' parole is one of the eight issued today by Gov. Baker for Thanksgiving day, in keeping with his policy of granting clemency to several convicts on each holiday. Two St. Louis convicts ar-re in the group. They are George Reich, who has served eight years
of a 20-year sentence for robbery,
and Walter C. Ogle, who has served 17 months of a 10-year sentence for robbery.

Release of Thomas follows an investigation by Shelly I. Stiles of Caruthersville, Prosecuting Attorney of Pemisic County at the time
Thomas was sent to the penitentiary. Stiles informed the State Penal Board, after his inquiry, that Thomas was serving a sentence for a crime which was not committed and urged his discharge.

Thomas was charged with killing Isaac Young, a Negro, in a fight at a dance near Braggadocio, Mo., in January, 1924. Stiles filed an information against Thomas for the murder. Thomas was convicted and sentenced to 20 years in prison, from January 5, 1924.

In his statement to the Penal Board, Stiles said he recently had made an inquiry and learned
no one had been killed in the fight.
He said he learned Young had been only slightly wounded, the fight occurring in the dark, and had left the State immediately, believing he had shot

some one in the encounter. Stiles said Young now was in Arkansas.
Stiles said he believed Thomas,
who was ignorant of the law and his legal rights, had pleaded guilty through fright.

The Penal Board recommended
the release of Henry A. Beard because of "serious doubt" of his guilt, although the prison records show Beard pleaded guilty to the charge of robbery. Beard was sentenced to 15 years, from Dec. 29, 1920, for robbery of Charles Houser of Kansas City, in which 40 cents was obtained.

The board differed with the courts and juries in its recommendation of a parole for Walter E.
Ogle of St. Louis. Ogle was convicted of the robbery of the grocery store of Nicholas Fehrenbach, 4399 Gibson avenue, St. Louis, of $1284, on Dec. 1, 1926, and was sentenced to 10 years in prison.
Fehrenbach positively identified Ogle as a participant of the robbery. Ogle relied upon the alibi testimony of several residents of Rolla, Mo., 112 miles from St.
Louis, who said they saw Ogle
there about three hours before the time of the robbery in St.
Louis. In its letter to the Governor the Penal Board stated it believed these alibi statements, which were repeated in affidavits to the board, and that "the jury was mistaken when it refused to believe these witnesses." The court repeatedly have held that it is the province of juries to believe or reject alibi testimony.

Reich, the other St. Louis convict paroled, was convicted of robbing a branch office of the Pevely Dairy Co. of St. Louis in June, 1920, and was sentenced to 20 years in prison. Former Governor
Hyde refused to parole Reich.
Among the recommendations for parole of Reich were letters from Circuit Judge R. W. Hall of St.
Louis, the trial judge, and Nat Goldstein, Republican politician of St. Louis.

Others paroled include William
L. Roberts, Boone County farmer, served six years and five months
of a 25-year sentence for killing William A. Ryland in a quarrel over some turkeys; Margaret Mc-Allister of Kansas City, served five years of a 10-year sentence, for killing a man who deserted her after living with her several years.
Gov. Baker issued a commutation of sentence to William Ross, Negro, of Pemisic County, who has served three years and six months of a 10-year sentence for murder. He must be returned to Oklahoma to serve the remainder of a sentence in the Oklahoma Penitentiary, from which he escaped.

Commissioner Zierrath said he "would not dignify Judge Weber's statement with a reply."

WOMAN ACCIDENTALLY KILLED BY HUSBAND, CLEANING GUN

Mrs. E. C. Andrews Shot in Auto, Colo.; Formerly Lived in Windsor, Ill.

PANA, Ill., Nov. 28.—Mrs. W. A. Rankin of Windsor, Shelby

County received a message yesterday from a Colorado woman, informing her of the death of her sister, Mrs. E. C. Andrews, formerly of Windsor, Ill., who was accidentally shot and killed by her husband. The message said Andrews was cleaning a shotgun, which he thought unloaded, and it was discharged, the charge striking his wife in the heart. Mrs. Andrews was 56 years old, the daughter of Mrs. Harry Barrhart, a widely known Shelby County resident, and many of her relatives reside in this vicinity. Her mother, husband and one son survive.

Hoover Warmly Welcomed In Capital of Costa Rica

however, between Diaz and Moncada on the retention of the Marines in Nicaragua to train the Nicaraguan national guard. Diaz said he hoped the Marines' training would last from three to four years more, while Moncada said he thought the training could be completed in two years. President Diaz declared that he had asked to have the Marines supervise the 1932 elections of Nicaragua.

President-elect Hoover declared that his welcome by the leaders of former contending forces in Nicaragua—President Diaz, former President Chamorro and President-elect Moncada—was a demonstration of the "difficult national crisis" into which the United States had been drawn had now reached a basis of solution meriting the deepest thankfulness of the people of both countries.

Friendly Spirit Manifest.
The luncheon meeting of Hoover and President Diaz and President-elect Moncada of Nicaragua was considered of historical significance both in the exchanges of views between them and in the spirit evidencing the desire of the representatives of the two nations to promote harmony and progress. Hoover toasted Nicaragua in water.

"The American people will co-operate with the Nicaraguans in the building up of the prosperity of Nicaragua," President-elect Hoover declared before he drank his toast.

He then turned to Moncada and said: "I treasure this as a great day in my career as the President-elect of the United States. I hope that Gen. Moncada will remember it as one of the great days in his career."

Diaz Congratulates Hoover.
In response to Hoover's speech of congratulation over Nicaragua's settlement of her internal difficulties, President Diaz said: "It has been extremely satisfactory to me in the closing days of my presidency to greet the President-elect of the great American people who will direct the future destinies of the most powerful republic in the world. I salute you, Mr. Hoover, who quickly upon achieving your exalted office took this great step which stimulates sympathetic sentiments of the United States towards all nations of the world whether great or small."

"The Nicaraguan people, who by the special circumstances of history and geography feel themselves linked to the people of the United States, greet you through me. Today when you touch our shores we express to you our cordial disposition to co-operate in great continental harmony, which is the supreme aspiration of the mission of peace and concord toward which your visit paves the way."

"I also express my personal wishes that favoring winds may always lead this vessel toward the happiness and prosperity of such distinguished travelers."

At the luncheon table Moncada was placed at Hoover's left with Mr. Hoover on her husband's right. Next to her were Diaz, Chamorro and Caesar Pasos, Nicaraguan minister of foreign affairs. Next to Moncada were Ambassador Fletcher, Dr. Dagudo, Nicaraguan Minister of Finance and American Minister Eberhardt. Covers were laid at the luncheon for 42 persons, including the American naval and marine officers on duty in Nicaragua. The tables were placed under an awning on the quarter deck. The rails of the ship were gaily decorated with signal flags, palm branches and native flowers.

Hoover Gets Roaring Welcome.
A roaring popular greeting was given Hoover when he stepped ashore at Corinto.

Hoover and Diaz, Moncada and Chamorro had an intimate talk of more than half an hour, conversing through an interpreter in the Customs House. Charles C. Eberhardt, United States Minister, and several of Hoover's friends who are voyaging with him said this conversation signified that the next President of the United States had accomplished just what he hoped to do in Nicaragua. Intimate talks with the leaders of the countries which he visits are what Hoover most desires.

Hundreds of Nicaraguans, straggled and countless, stood on freight cars on the railroad track in front of the Customs House when Hoover arrived. They yelled "Viva Hoover" and waved flags, many of which were home-made copies of the United States emblem done in colored tissue paper.

A battalion of United States Marines was stationed in the streets leading to the Customs House. They came to "present arms" as Hoover arrived and their band played the national anthems of the two countries. The ceremony was repeated as the conferees left the Customs House to board the U. S. S. Maryland.

The Landing at Corinto.
All ships in the harbor fired a presidential salute or dipped their flags as the battleship Maryland came to anchor at 8 o'clock about eight miles off shore. Two United States warships already were in the harbor, the cruiser Rochester, which is flagship of the special service squadron of the Caribbean, and the gunboat Tulsa.

Admiral David F. Sellers, commanding the squadron, and a boarding party were received by Hoover on the quarterdeck of the Maryland a little after 9 o'clock.

The waterfront piers and all nearby buildings of Corinto were decorated and hung with flags in honor of the visit. The colors of Nicaragua and the United States appeared everywhere. Welcome signs in English and Spanish were posted on walls. The whole side of a warehouse opposite the landing pier was marked in huge letters "Bienvenida Hoover."

Hoover passed under another large sign reading "Welcome," made of flowers. Campaign pictures of the President-elect, coupled with the phrase bienvenida were pasted on walls throughout the city.

One of the picturesque touches in the welcome was a "Living Statue of Liberty." Miss Margarita Perez, in flowing white drapery and golden crown and carrying the Stars and Stripes, posed on the top of a pedestal near the landing pier as the Hoover party stepped ashore.

Planes Soar Over Battleship.
Three United States Marine airplanes from Managua soared over the Maryland as she came to anchor and hovered over the launches of the battleship as they carried Hoover to shore. The Marine forces sent out to the Maryland a launch loaded with flowers as a gift to Mrs. Hoover.

Among those who met Hoover at the official reception in the home of R. J. Jordan of Minneapolis, who is the Custom Collector here, were Foreign Minister Carlos Cuadra Pasos, Minister of Finance B. Guardian and Brigadier-General Edward K. Beadle, U. S. A., organizer and commander of the Nicaraguan National Guard.

Argentina Delays Details of Program for Hoover's Entertainment.
By the Associated Press.
BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 28.—The Argentine Government is awaiting word as to whether Herbert Hoover is traveling in an official or personal capacity, before arranging details of the program for his entertainment.

President Trigoen conferred yesterday with Robert W. Bliss, United States Ambassador. He asked Bliss about the exact character of the Hoover journey and the latter told the President that he had no official notification, but that he would consult Washington. Bliss pointed out that in public declarations Hoover had said that he was coming without official standing, his trip being the result of a desire to pay courtesy calls on neighboring countries so that he might become acquainted with the people and find means to facilitate future good will.

Uruguay to Receive Hoover With Official Honors.
By the Associated Press.
MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Nov. 28.—The Government has curtailed its entertainment program for Herbert Hoover to fit the fact that he will be in the city only part of the day on Dec. 12, when he arrives from Buenos Aires. President Campeseguy will greet the visitor personally and receive him with official honors. There will be a reception in the presidential palace, followed by a review of garrison troops. A banquet will be served at noon and then Hoover and his party will be taken on an automobile tour of Montevideo.

POULTRY AND PET SHOW AT COLISEUM

3500 Barnyard Fowl Entered—Exhibition to Close Sunday Morning.

The annual poultry and pet show of the Mississippi Valley Pet and Small Stock Association opened at the Coliseum this morning and will continue until 10 p. m. Sunday.

Approximately 3500 barnyard fowls are on exhibition and tomorrow a cat and dog bench show will open, with a large number of entries. An educational program will be conducted at the show, speakers today being W. C. Young of Dayton, O., a poultry expert, and Thomas E. Quisenberry, director of the American Poultry Association. Meetings of the Brown Leghorn and International Cornish Clubs will be held during the day.

The bench show will be judged by Michael Keegan, St. Louis dog fancier. C. K. Cullom, secretary of the show, will continue to receive entries for the dog and cat exhibition.

We Give Thanks

for the constantly growing business activity of the St. Louis industrial community, and for the increase in life insurance, bank clearings and savings deposits in this territory.

We are thankful, too, that we have had our part in helping to create this prosperity and grateful that we have earned our right to share in it.

Why I Refuse to Become an Automobile Widow

"We are a one car family. My husband is a salesman and needs the car in his business. Many times he has neglected important matters in order to leave the auto for me."

"Then one day I realized how foolish it was for the children and myself to be tied down at home all the time. We started going places on the street car. I found the children enjoyed it. I was free to talk to them and visit with them, something I could not do very well when I was driving our car. And I discovered also that an old prejudice against street cars disappeared as a result of riding on new, modern, well-lighted and well-ventilated cars."

The above statement reflects the attitude that is being expressed in many homes today. Street cars are acknowledged to be the safest mode of transportation for women and children.

Keep a supply of street car tokens on hand. They are so much handier in paying fares. Use the token holder (furnished free with the purchase of 10 tokens). Easily carried in purse or pocket.

KIDNAPED AND ROBBED OF RINGS WORTH $1000

Miss Minnie Kranzberg Held Up Near Home and Forced Into Auto.

Miss Minnie Kranzberg, 22 years old, 5549 Terry avenue, was held up a few doors from her home, at 5:50 p. m. yesterday, by three men who forced her into an automobile and drove to an alley in the rear of 5927 Lotus avenue where they robbed her of an engagement ring, inscribed "T. T. to M. K.," set with one large and 22 small diamonds, valued at $800, and a dinner ring set with 15 diamonds valued at $200. She was wearing the rings. Her face was bruised when one of the men held her mouth to prevent an outcry.

In forcing her into the car, one of the robbers dropped his cap which police are holding as evidence. It is a tan cap with red and blue stripes, and bears the name of a Chicago clothing firm. Miss Kranzberg dropped her handbag, which she later recovered. Two men held up Zolite Glenn and three customers in Glenn's drug store at 2400 Marcus avenue and escaped with $80.

Three woman proprietors of confectioneries on the South Side were held up by two men who made purchases and tendered a large bill in order to find out where the cash was kept. They got $50 at the store of Mrs. Nettie Geiser, 4201 Hereford street; $3 cash and $3 worth of candy at the store of Mrs. Mary Fowler, 4442 Morganford road, and $10 and two boxes of cigars at the shop of Mrs. Mary Quigley, 2832 Osage street. Mrs. Fowler screamed for help when held up, but the men completed the robbery before driving away.

Richard Harvey, 19, was arrested yesterday afternoon on a warrant charging him with burglary at the Brooks & Hovis general store, Patterson, Mo. Nov. 24, when $600 worth of merchandise was stolen. Harvey was arrested as he sat in an automobile in front of the home of his sister, Mrs. Alice House, at 5121A Lotus avenue. Police say Harvey admitted he and another man committed the burglary. Some of the stolen goods were recovered in his sister's house.

$350,000 Christmas Stock Burns. POTTSMVILLE, Pa., Nov. 28.—A heavy Christmas stock of merchandise in the Montgomery Ward Co. building here was destroyed by fire today at a loss estimated by company officers at $350,000. Eight firemen were injured when the walls collapsed.

CONSTIPATION PREYS ON HEALTH

You can overcome it with ALL-BRAN

If you are troubled with constipation, read Mrs. Hogan's letter below. It came to us unsolicited—a message of relief to every sufferer.

February 12, 1927
"I want to tell you how much good your ALL-BRAN has done me. It surely can't be best for constipation. I have tried every kind of medicine and never in my whole life have been relieved until one of my neighbors told me to try bran. So I bought a box and read about your ALL-BRAN and thought I would see what it would do—and it surely did help me. I will never be without it in the house again."

Mrs. JOSEPH HOGAN,
1215 Clay St., Topeka, Kansas.
Constipation is almost universal. The cause of more than forty diseases. Dizziness, aching backs, circled eyes, bad complexion, are only a few of its symptoms.

Guard against it. Start tomorrow eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Two tablespoons daily—chronic cases, with every meal. Guaranteed. Doctors recommend it. A healthful cereal. Serve ALL-BRAN with milk or cream—and add fruits or honey. Sprinkle it into soups. Use it in cooking. Sold by all grocers. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

MENINGITIS KILLS SIX IN IDAHO
 Doctor and Nurse Latest Victims
 in Twin Falls County.
 By the Associated Press.
 TWIN FALLS, Id., Nov. 28.—The death yesterday of a physician and a nurse who had attended spinal meningitis patients brought the fatalities from the disease in this county to six since its presence was discovered Nov. 15. Dr. A. F. McClusky of Buhl, Id., and Mrs. Sue St. Martin Blakeslee were the latest victims. All public gatherings now are forbidden in Twin Falls County and the County Board of Health has declared that the situation is well in hand, with no new cases reported since Saturday. A limited quarantine has been established at Gooding.

KENOSHA STRIKERS SEEK AID IN ST. LOUIS

Allen-A Men in Search of Sympathy and Financial Assistance.

Gustav Tillman and Robert Euting, two young hosiery workers, who have participated for nine months in the dispute between the Allen-A Mills of Kenosha, Wis., and 230 union workers, are in St. Louis this week to lay their case before the members of local unions in a search for sympathy and financial assistance. Other workers are in other cities of the Middle West and East on a similar mission.

The dispute which has resulted in bloodshed and bombing as well as the imprisonment of 26 pickets, including seven young women, who defied an injunction and then refused to pay $100 fines, began, Tillman said, when the company locked out its union knitters in the full-fashioned department on Feb. 15, last.

The order affected 230 workers, 195 of them women, all members of the American Federation of Full Fashioned Hosiery Workers. While the company imported nonunion workers from other cities, the union employees, mostly natives of Kenosha, undertook a campaign which has attracted nation-wide attention.

Since the first picketing, however, serious situations have arisen. Three employees of the company were shot from ambush and wounded, another was kidnapped and tortured with hot tar and 21 buildings were bombed, including the $15,000 summer home of the company's general manager. But when the 26 union employees went off to jail in Milwaukee, Oct. 21, they rode in decorated automobiles, singing union songs and provoking cheers as they moved through the business district of Kenosha.

"We are fighting for a principle, for the right to belong to a union," Tillman said today. "We have been forced to give up luxuries such as our automobiles and some of us have had to surrender homes we were paying for. But we feel that the people of Kenosha are behind us and that we will win our eventually."

"We are not demanding higher wages. The average income of a worker in the full-fashioned department is $35 a week. Most of our people went to the plant from high school, some of them from college. They spent eight months as apprentices at $11.25 a week before they were assigned machines at regular wages. "The girls are from 18 to 24 years old, the boys from 20 to 28. They have been giving the best years of their lives to a work they must abandon before they reach 20 to save their eyesight. Most of the workers in the plant wear glasses now."

Both Tillman and Euting are neat appearing, clean-cut young men, 22 years old. Both are natives of Kenosha and were educated at the Kenosha High School. At the time of the lockout, Tillman had worked for the company three years, and Euting 18 months. They will remain in St. Louis two more weeks addressing union meetings nightly.

DOHENY'S SELL OIL HOLDINGS FOR $25,000,000 IN CASH

Pacific Western Oil Co. Buys Properties of Edward L. Doheny and Son, Who Will Re-enter Field.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 28.—The bank accounts of Edward L. Doheny and his son showed a $25,000,000 increase yesterday in what bankers here thought was the largest cash transaction that ever took place in the West.

The Pacific Western Oil Co. paid this sum in exchange for deeds and contracts covering certain oil properties owned by the Dohenys. The land titles were received by the company here while bankers representing the Dohenys in New York accepted delivery of a certified check. A cash option of $1,000,000 had been paid.

Doheny officers here announced that despite the sale the properties which were understood to be the oil lands of the Petroleum Securities Co., controlled by Doheny and his son, they planned to re-enter the oil field on a larger scale.

TWC HUNTERS KILL SAME BEAR, GUNS FIRING SIMULTANEOUSLY

Neither Knew Other Was in Wood
 —Both Claim Prize but Agree to a Division.

By the Associated Press.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 28.—Unknown to each other, two Milwaukee friends, Ben Scherer and William Zitrow, went hunting in northern Wisconsin, near Mercer, Scherer encountered a big black bear and fired. Zitrow saw a bear and fired.

Scherer rushed forward to see his prize, as did Zitrow. Surprised, they greeted each other near the dead bear.

"Hello Ben," said Zitrow, "isn't that a fine bear I shot?"

"Why, I shot him, Bill," Scherer countered.

An argument followed and they finally agreed that both had come upon the bear from different directions and had fired simultaneously so that only one report was heard. There was the evidence of their marksmanship—one bullet through the lower jaw and another in the left side. Both claimed the bear.

and neither would sell his rights. The bear was brought back to Milwaukee, and Gerald Lacher Jr., a mutual friend, has the task of dividing the bear.

Don't Fuss With Mustard Plasters

Don't mix a mess of mustard, flour and water when you can relieve pain, soreness or stiffness with a little clean, white Musterole.

Musterole is made of oil of mustard and other helpful ingredients, and takes the place of mustard plasters. Musterole usually gives prompt relief from sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frost-bite, colds of the chest (it may prevent pneumonia).

Troubled With Hard Pimples

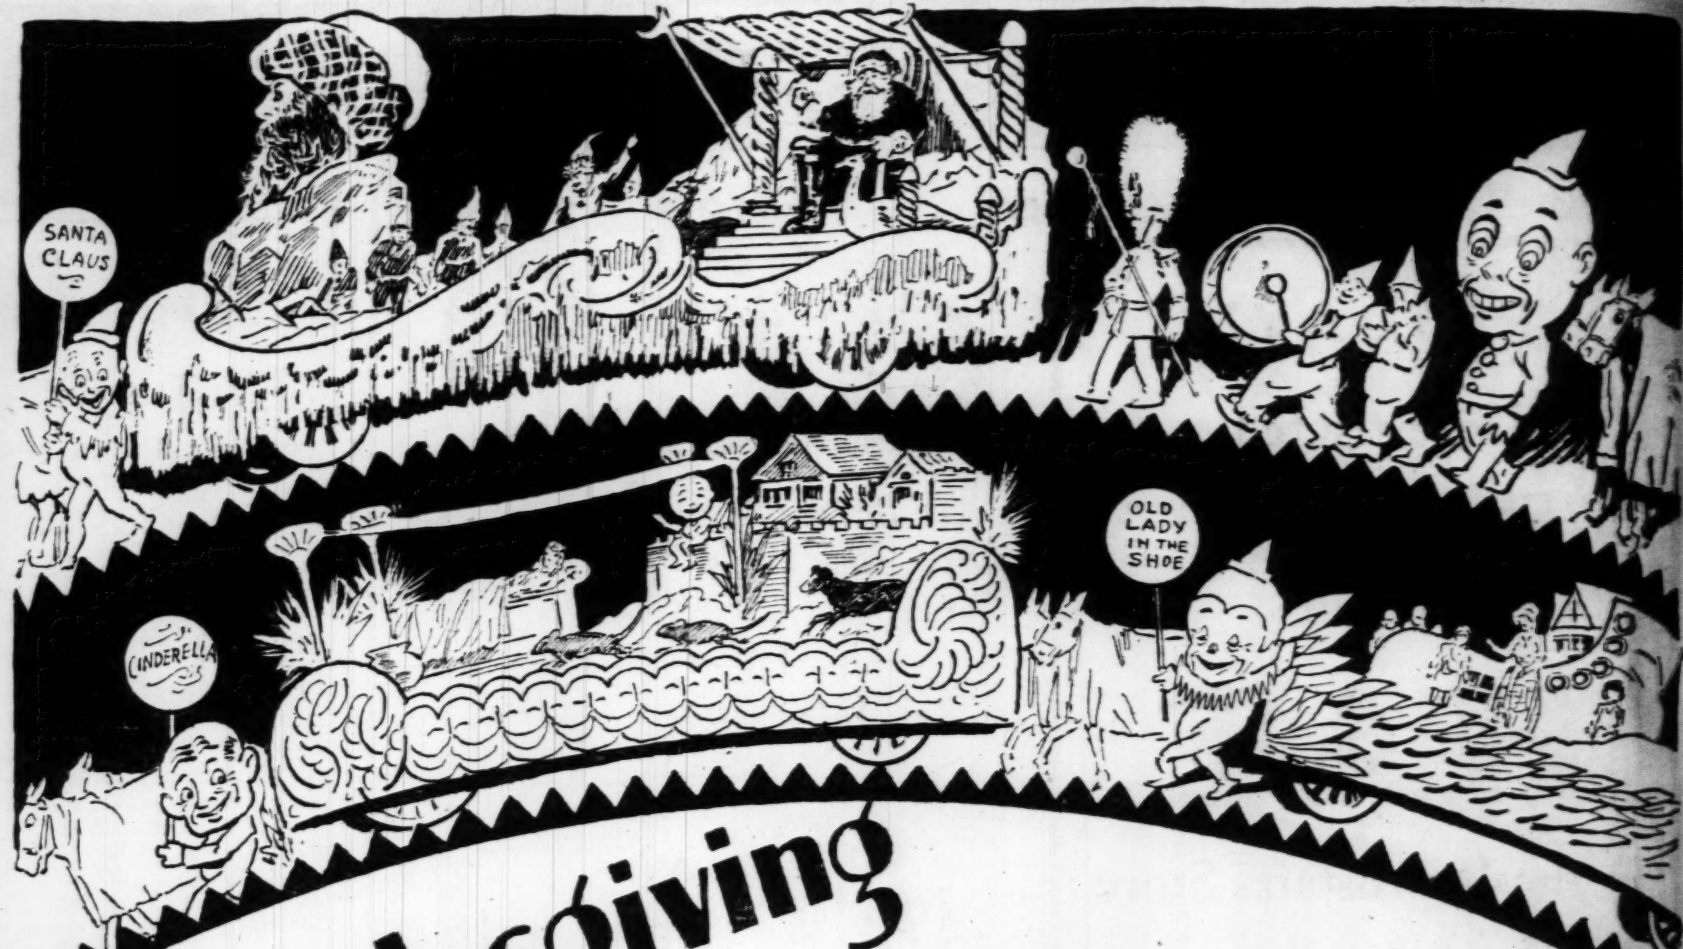

Was Ashamed to Go Out.
 Healed by Cuticura.

"I was troubled with pimples on my face. They were so bad that I was ashamed to go out. The pimples were red, and some were hard and others soft. They were scattered all over my face, and itched and were very sore. The trouble lasted a few months."

"I tried everything without any benefit. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and got relief, and after using four cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. Mary E. Moore, R. 2, Box 20, Brazil, Ind., Jan. 25, 1928.

Thanksgiving MORNING NUGENTS TOY PARADE ON THE STREETS OF ST. LOUIS

Thursday is the BIG DAY. Jolly Old Santa Claus (himself, in person) makes his annual pilgrimage to St. Louis and there is going to be a great, big, long, huge, wonderful parade of welcome in his honor. EVERYBODY IS INVITED, and, oh, what fun there will be! FORTY-NINE SEPARATE and distinct units, lots of funny characters—cowboys, Indians, funny animals, and a whole lot of magnificent floats. And that isn't all. Seven bands and Santa Claus himself on the biggest and most beautiful float of all. Every boy and girl in St. Louis and surrounding vicinity will want to see it. To be right there with a wave of the hand and a lusty cheer for jolly old St. Nick and his hundreds of characters who assist him in his spectacular promenade through the streets of St. Louis.

Church Services, Dinners and Football Game on Program for Holiday in St. Louis.

Church services in the morning—home dinners of turkey and cranberry sauce—football in the afternoon comprise the forecast for tomorrow, Thanksgiving day. Schools, banks, business houses will be closed. The public schools will remain closed Friday, the day following Thanksgiving, and parochial schools also will not resume sessions until the Monday following.

The annual football game between Washington University and St. Louis University is scheduled for 2 p. m. at Sportsman's Park. It will mark the athletic peak of the season. Thousands of tickets have been reserved by the partisans of both schools. A crowd of approximately 20,000 is expected.

Preparations for Dinners. Crowded grocery stores and meat markets today—advance orders for turkeys to both retailers and wholesalers—special menus announced by restaurants, indicated that the banquet note of Thanksgiving will not be overlooked.

About 100 boys of North St. Louis will engage in a "treasure hunt" to be given in Forest Park tomorrow morning by the North Side Y. M. C. A. The boys will return to the "Y" after the hunt for a turkey dinner. The afternoon will be occupied with outdoor group games. The Carondelet Y. M. C. A. will hold a similar treasure hunt in Forest Park.

Most of the church services begin at 10:30 a. m. At that hour there will be a community Thanksgiving service, in which four churches will take part, at the Holy Ghost Evangelical Church, 4914 Mardell avenue. The pastor, the Rev. T. C. Braun, will be assisted by the Rev. H. A. Zunkle, of Unity Lutheran Church; the Rev. W. A. Murdoch of Southampton Presbyterian Church; and the Rev. B. M. Ridpath of St. Luke's M. E. Church. A large chorus will lead the singing.

A high mass in honor of Thanksgiving day will be said at St. Francis Xavier College Church, at 9:30 a. m. Father Motherway, dean of the School of Divinity, will preach the sermon.

Services at Christ Church. Services are scheduled at the Christ Church (Episcopal) Cathedral, Thirteenth and Locust streets, for 11 o'clock. The Rev. Dr. Donald McFadden of Washington University will preach.

Several churches will take part in the Union Thanksgiving service to be held at 10:30 a. m. at the Centenary Methodist Church, Sixteenth and Pine streets. There will be singing by a quartet and chorus under the direction of Edgar L. McFadden. The Rev. C. W. Tadlock, pastor, will conduct the services.

A community Thanksgiving service will be held at 10 o'clock in the Salem Evangelical Church, Shreve and Margaretta avenues, with the Rev. J. H. Overbeck presiding.

Services at Many Churches. Other Thanksgiving services, and in which several neighborhood congregations will take part, are scheduled for 10:30 a. m. at the Cabanne M. E. Church, Goodfellow and Barmine avenues; the Carondelet Baptist Church, 7217 Virginia avenue; Kingshighway Presbyterian, Kingshighway and Cabanne; the Immanuel M. E. South, McCausland and Stanley; the Bowman M. E. Church, 4276 Athlone; First Presbyterian, 7200 Delmar avenue; Pilgrim Congregational, Union and Kensington; the First Presbyterian, Washington and Adelaide; the Giddings Presbyterian, Sarah and Washington, and the Webster Groves Presbyterian, Gore and Lockwood avenues.

Tonight, at Sidney Street Presbyterian Church, Sidney and Minnesota avenues, there will be a special service by several churches, at which the offertory will be given to the Provident Association through the Community Fund.

Sunrise Services Planned. Sunrise services will be conducted at 7 a. m. by the young people of the Second Presbyterian Church, Taylor avenue and Westminster place. Similar services will be held at the Winnebago Presbyterian Church, Winnebago street and Tennessee avenues.

The Ethical Society will have Thanksgiving exercises by the Children's Sunday Assembly at 10:30 a. m. at Sheldon Memorial, 2448 Washington boulevard. A short play, "The Pot Boiler," will be presented tomorrow night.

The Postoffice and substations will be closed tomorrow, and no delivery service will be made on city carrier or rural routes. One delivery will be made to newspaper offices and large hotels east of Jefferson avenue.

LEADERS LIKELY TO PUT FARM AID BILL UP TO HOOVER

He Will Probably Be Asked to Decide Whether to Consider It at Short or Special Session.

COOLIDGE UNABLE TO MAKE DECISION

President's Opinion Is Majority Should Agree on Measure Before It Is Considered.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Herbert Hoover may be called upon by Congressional leaders to take a hand in the controversy as to whether farm relief shall be disposed of at the approaching short session or await the extra session promised by the President-elect, if action is not now forthcoming.

After returning from his South American cruise probably in January, it appears likely that Hoover will find himself in this unique position while Calvin Coolidge is still President.

From the White House came word yesterday that Mr. Coolidge had been unable to decide what the majority opinion of the congressional leaders on this question appeared to be. He feels that agreement on a farm bill by members of Congress and others interested in the legislation is a prerequisite to immediate action.

And this is what is worrying congressional leaders. They feel that Hoover should indicate his views on the modified agricultural relief measure drafted by Chairman McNary of the Senate Agriculture Committee before any serious attempt is made in the short session to get consideration of this subject.

Favors Special Session.
Representative Bacharach of New Jersey, a Republican member of the Ways and Means Committee, announced that he favored an extra session to carry out the pledges of the Republican party concerning upward revision of the tariff on agricultural products. He added, however, that since many industries were suffering from foreign competition there should be
"a general revision of the tariff law or none at all."

Representative Ramseyer (Rep.)
of Iowa, who is to be a member of the committee at the coming session, said the opinion of those committee members with whom he had talked inclined toward consideration of the tariff at hearings soon after the holidays. Representative Tilson of Connecticut, Republican leader, has suggested that such a course be followed so that a bill could be made ready for presentation at a special session
soon after March 4.

While Tilson thinks that the farm question can be solved at the short session, Representative Dickinson (Rep.) of Iowa, a House farm group leader, expressed the opinion that this legislation should await a special session in order that the farmer may get a "complete new deal" based on the agricultural aid proposals of President-elect Hoover. He does not think there will be a serious effort to pass at the coming session the McNary-Haugen bill minus the controversial equalization fee.

Against Haste on Tariff.
Representative Small (Rep.) of
New York, chairman of the Rules Committee, said he would be governed by the wishes of the farm leaders in deciding whether agricultural legislation should have a place on the short session calendar. He added that there should be no hurry to push through new tariff legislation, as this subject required a lot of study, usually taking six months to perfect a bill.

It is felt at the Capitol that the farm relief and tariff issues were among the most important of the Hoover campaign, and that inasmuch as he probably will be held responsible for legislation on the two questions the President-elect should be consulted and should irradiate his views.

Senator Watson of Indiana, a prospective Republican leader of the Senate to succeed Vice-President-elect Curtis, has lined up with Speaker Longworth against an immediate extra session and for one in the fall, if any is necessary, on farm relief.

There were indications that he is one of those who would like to learn the views of Hoover on the new farm relief measure drafted
by Senator McNary. But the Hoover forces seemed to be divided.
Senator Borah of Idaho insists on the extra session this spring for farm relief. Senator Capper of Kansas wants farm relief and an emergency tariff act passed in this session.

SORE THROAT

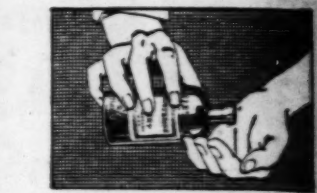

—end it!

See how little trouble with your throat you have when you use Lis-terine full strength as a daily gargle.
Head colds, throat irritations, are usually caused by germs. At the first sign of trouble use Listerine, full strength. It is powerful against germs
—so powerful, in fact, that it kills
even the virulent B. Typhosus (typhoid) germs in 15 seconds.

During winter weather use Lis-terine night and morning and between times after cold or wet feet, or ex-posure to drafts or bad air in cars,
buses or trains. It is pleasant,
effective, safe.

SENTINELS OF SERVICE

The new Ford
has a very simple and effective lubrication system

THE lubrication system for the engine of the new Ford is as simple in principle as water running down-hill.

A gear pump in the bottom of the oil pan raises the oil to the valve chamber reservoir. From here it flows on to the main crank-shaft bearings and the front cam-shaft bearing. Overflow oil drops into the oil pan tray and runs into troughs through which the connecting rods pass.

As the ends of these rods strike
the oil they scoop up a supply for the connecting rod bearing. At the same time they set up a fine
spray that lubricates the pistons
and other moving parts.

From the tray the oil runs into the bottom of the pan, and is again drawn up through a fine
mesh screen and pumped to the valve chamber.

This system is so effective that the five-quart contents of the oil pan pass through the pump twice in every mile when you are traveling at only 30 miles an hour. Yet there is only one movable part—the oil pump.

FORD MOTOR COMPANY

As a matter of fact, the lubrication system for the new Ford is so simple in design
and so carefully made that it requires practically no service attention.

There is just one thing for you to do, but it is a very important thing . . . watch the oil! Change the oil every 500 miles and be sure the indicator rod never registers below low (L).

If the oil level is allowed to fall below low, the supply becomes insufficient to oil all parts
as they should be oiled.

To insure best performance it is also advisable to have the chassis of your car lubricated every 500 miles. This has been made easy through the use of the high pressure grease gun system.

Proper oiling and greasing mean so much to the life of your car that they should not be neglected or carelessly done.

See your Ford dealer regularly.
He is especially well-fitted to lubricate the new Model A car and he will do a good, thorough job
at a fair price.

A Word of Thanksgiving

¶ The Mississippi Valley Trust Company feels that on this Thanksgiving Day it has real cause to give thanks.

¶ It is thankful for the city's prosperity, in which it has shared.

¶ It is thankful for the ardent support of its old friends, thankful for the confidence reposed
in it by new customers.

¶ For the privilege, alone, of continuing to serve one of the greatest cities and one of the most productive inland empires
in the world, the Mississippi Valley Trust Company is deeply thankful.

¶ May the blessings we have all enjoyed continue throughout the coming years.

Westwood Cou
To Be Opened
With a Ho

Building on 300-Acre Tr
Structure in Fashion Manor — 27-Hole

The new Westwood Country Club, fronting 2000 feet on the Chesapeake road and 1500 feet on the Chesapeake road, will be opened formally tomorrow afternoon at a tea
and housewarming celebration at which many members will inspect the first time the recently completed club house and grounds.
which cost approximately $1,000,000.

The club house, a low rambling structure of stone, with great amounts of staggered-shingle roofing, broken by gables and towers, was designed after the fashion of an old English manor. It is somewhat in the shape of an "L", 400 by 350 feet. The interior construction and decoration is consistent with the architectural period exemplified by the exterior. There are heavy timbered ceilings and other rooms
have only the crude, bare rafters showing. Walls are roughly finished.
There are broad fireplaces, and series of tall Gothic arches, hung with brightly colored drapes, which serve as partitions. The building cost $250,000 and another $250,000 was spent for furnishings.

Splendid Recipe To Stop A Cough That "Hangs On"

The best cough remedy that money could buy, can easily be made at home. It saves money and gives you the most reliable, satisfying medicine you ever used. The way it takes hold of coughs and chest colds, giving immediate relief, is astonishing.
Any drugstore can supply you with 25 cents of Pinex. Pour it into a pint bottle, and fill up with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained
honey. It's no trouble at all to mix, and once used, you will never be without it. Keeps perfectly and tastes good—children like it.
It is surprising how quickly this home-made remedy loosens the green-laden phlegm, and soothes and cures the inflamed membranes. At the same time, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes, and helps the system throw off the whole trouble.
Even those severe coughs which follow the "flu", are promptly ended.
Pinex is a highly concentrated essence of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form.
Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of severe coughs, chest cold, and bronchial troubles.
Do not accept a substitute for the Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Westwood Country Club To Be Opened Tomorrow With a Housewarming

Building on 300-Acre Tract a Rambling Stone Structure in Fashion of Old English Manor — 27-Hole Golf Course.

The new Westwood Country Club, fronting 3000 feet on the highway road and 1500 feet on the main road, will be opened formally tomorrow afternoon at a tea and housewarming celebration at which many members will inspect the first time the recently completed club house and grounds, which cost approximately $1,000,000.

The club house, a low rambling structure of stone, with great masses of staggered-shingle roof, broken by gables and towers, designed after the fashion of an old English manor. It is somewhat the shape of an "L", 400 by 350 feet. The interior construction and decoration is consistent with the architectural period exemplified by the exterior. There are heavy timbered ceilings and other rooms are only the crude, bare rafters. The walls are roughly finished. There are broad fireplaces, and sections of fall Gothic arches, hung with brightly colored drapes to serve as partitions. The building cost $250,000 and another $100,000 was spent for furnishings.

300-Acre Tract.
Club grounds of 300 acres include a 27-hole golf course, which has been in use since July, tennis courts, a swimming pool, playground, space designed for next year as a riding stable, and a plot which will be kept available for possible future use as a landing field. There are 44 lots, each covering slightly more than an acre, which have been sold to club members for $1000.

The club formerly was at Berry road and Lockwood avenue in West Grove, that property having been sold last year to a syndicate which since has operated it as the Westwood Country Club. The new site was acquired in March, 1927, and within a few months work on the golf course was started. Construction of the clubhouse was not started until last July.

Main Lounge a Feature.
A feature of the building is the long main lounge, bordered on one side with the arches which give access to the sunroom, overlooking the terraces leading down to the swimming pool. At one end is a huge fireplace. Overhead, suspended from the open rafters, are two large electric fixtures which, when lighted, have the appearance of a myriad of fallow candles. Other rooms have lighting fixtures, carrying out the period idea, in the form of lanterns or kerosene lamps.

Adjoining the lounge are the two dining rooms, furnished with long, sturdy tables and tall, straight-backed chairs. There also is a men's grill near the locker rooms where light luncheons are served. Locker rooms in separate parts of the building are provided for men, women, children and caddies. The spacious locker room for women is lined with dressing rooms equipped with private baths and vanity tables. Locker rooms for men are in the west end of the building, all of which is reserved for men. In this section are the barber shop, grill, private card rooms and the golf shop.

Much of the building has no second story, but 17 rooms are furnished upstairs for resident members.

Two 18-Hole Golf Courses.
The golf course is expected to have the efficiency of two 18-hole courses. It really is three 9-hole courses, the first tee for each being close to the clubhouse, and so laid out that players can start on any course and continue through for 18 or 27 holes. The course has been piped for drainage and irrigation so that in dry weather even the fairways may be watered. Water for this purpose is pumped from a 45-acre lake constructed on the grounds.

The club grounds are rolling, ideal for golf and contributing to the picturesque setting. There virtually is no shrubbery and few trees, except for several small fruit orchards. The club plans to establish a nursery in which small shrubs and plants will be set out until they are large enough for transplanting about the grounds. A few large plants, including some trees, will be planted soon about the clubhouse.

Construction of a large brick residence for Alvin L. Bauman, president of the Western Wire Works, has been started on the club grounds. Other club members who have purchased home sites, but have not yet started to build, are: Irvin Bettmann, M. Erwin Bry, Ira L. Bretzfelder, Richard S. Eiseman, A. B. Frey, Alvin D. Goldman, L. Heidenreich, Milton A. Heilman, Harry Lesser, M. G. Levinson, E. J. Marx, Jr., Morton J. May, Phil Mayer, Roswell Messing, L. M. Monheimer, H. L. Oppenheimer, Paul E. Peltason, Charles M. Rice, Louis Rosen, J. Sydneey Salky, Irving L. Senger, Bernard P. Singer, Louis M. Steinberg, Mark C. Steinberg, Meyer Wiene, and Walter V. Wolff.

To Enroll 350 Members.
Disposal of the old club grounds, which had proved inadequate, and the acquisition and development of the new property, has been achieved during the three-year term of Ira L. Bretzfelder as president of the club. The membership, when the old property was relinquished, was 275. It is now 300 and will be expanded, by invitation, during the winter to 350.

Other officers are: Louis Rosen, vice president; Milton H. Tucker, secretary; H. J. Elton, treasurer. On the board of governors are Edgar L. Barkhouse, Leo S. Bauman, Irvin Bettmann, Richard S. Eiseman, Robert V. Friedman, Alvin D. Goldman, Samuel Rosenfeld, M. Erwin Bry, G. L. Harris, Michael Levy, L. H. Monheimer, H. L. Oppenheimer, Llewellyn Sale and Albert I. Silx.

Development of the club grounds was in charge of a committee headed by Louis Rosen. Other members were Robert V. Friedman, Leslie Lieber, Richard S. Eiseman, J. J. Marx, Myron R. Aloe, Michael Levy and Agolph I. Stein.

The committee, which spent many months selecting furnishings for the clubhouse, was headed by Louis M. Monheimer. Each piece of furniture was selected after consulting blueprints and floor plans to determine where it could be used to good advantage. Other members of the committee were Mrs. Charles M. Rice, Mrs. Alvin Bauman, Mrs. E. E. Scharf, Sol Root, Leo Fuller, Frank Sale, Elmer G. Samish and Richard E. Eiseman.

Photographs made at the club this week are reproduced today on this pictorial page.

SEVEN MORE BANKS IN GEORGIA CLOSE

Heavy Withdrawals Attributed to Suspension of Macon Depository.

By the Associated Press.

MACON, Ga., Nov. 28.—The affairs of seven middle Georgia banks were in the hands of the State Banking Department behind closed doors today as a sequel to the closing of the Fourth National Bank of Macon, Monday. The Macon bank was their Federal Reserve agent.

In each case officers assured depositors of protection and announced that reorganization and reopening would be effected as soon as possible. Heavy withdrawals were attributed to a financial scare over the condition of the Fourth National Bank.

Meanwhile, the directorate of the Fourth National Bank was busy arranging conferences looking toward reorganization and capitalization at $750,000 instead of $500,000 as at present. Claude Gilbert, of the insolvency division of the United States Treasury Department, has been designated as receiver by the Comptroller of the Currency. Auditors working under Ellis D. Robb, chief national bank examiner of the Sixth Federal Reserve District, continued their survey of the bank's books.

The largest of the eight depositories closing yesterday was the Citizens' Bank of Fort Valley, capitalized at $100,000. The others had capital listed between $15,000 and $25,000. Macon and Fort Valley are among the larger shipping centers in Georgia's extensive peach growing section.

Officers of the Fourth National Bank yesterday issued a statement which said a two-hour run Monday was due to "baseless rumors" connected with the collapse of negotiations for sale of the institution to Atlanta financiers.

Besides the Fort Valley Bank, the other depositories which are closed were the Bank of Brynville, Bank of Bradley, Farmers' and Merchants' Bank of Gordon, Citizens' Bank of Culloden, Bank of Preston and the Farmers' Bank of Byron.

Youthful Pep Comes Back in Middle Age
Phospho-Cod brings back lost vigor and energy to hundreds

Why let old age come on before its time? There's no reason why middle-aged people can't be as active, energetic, and full of pep as young folks.
A fine old prescription, known as Phospho-Cod, does the trick. Its success has been so astounding that Walgreen Drug Stores guarantee it absolutely. They make you this offer: If in twelve days Phospho-Cod doesn't double your pep and energy, they will refund what you pay for it.
Phospho-Cod brings you the pep-restoring, health-building neptones of cod livers, together with purifying extracts and hypophosphites.

HER HEAD ACHED SO BAD HAD TO STAY IN BED

MANY a man or woman has found relief from headache, when a condition of constipation was the underlying cause, by taking a simple, powdered preparation of selected medicinal leaves and roots, known far and wide as Theodor's Black-Draught. It has been in successful use for more than eighty-seven years, with constantly increasing popularity, by reason of its own value.

Here is an instance of how Black-Draught proved of benefit to the Louisiana lady:
"About two years ago I was suffering from constipation," writes Mrs. F. Guidry, of 637 Middle Street, Baton Rouge, La.

"I would have severe headache, and would have to stay in bed a day or two at a time. I tried different remedies; did not get relief.

Children's little ailments needn't worry any mother. Be prepared any hour of the twenty-four to allay a fretful spell—or even fever. Just enlist the aid of Fletcher's Castoria. It comforts so quickly no time is lost. If not, call a physician. Don't experiment with medicines meant for grown-ups.
You've heard of Fletcher's Castoria. But do you realize its many marvelous uses? In infancy to sweeten the little stomach that's sour; for gentle persuasion of the bowels when irregular; in cases of colic or the equally dangerous diarrhoea. But keep on with good old Fletcher's Castoria until your child is grown. Bigger appetite, better assimilation and elimination will almost surely reward this sensible care. Get the genuine with Chas. SEEKS TO BAR TOLL BRIDGES ON U. S. HIGHWAY

Senator Brookhart of Iowa to Introduce Bill to Keep Away From Such Privately Owned Spans.

"IMMENSE GRAFT IN THE BUSINESS"

Nation Can Afford to Build All of Them, He Declares—T. H. MacDonald Advocates Free Roads.

By CHARLES G. ROSS, Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Senator Smith W. Brookhart (Rep. Iowa), has announced that he will introduce a bill to do away with privately-owned toll bridges on Federal highways. Brookhart said he was in complete sympathy with the ideas of Thomas H. MacDonald, Chief of the Bureau of Public Roads, who stated in his recent annual report that highway bridges should be built by the public and not by private interests. MacDonald's report was summarized in the Post-Dispatch last Sunday.

"The last Congress authorized the construction of 67 privately-owned toll bridges," said Brookhart. "This is an absurd proposition. Why should the Government expend huge sums on the construction of good roads then permit some individual or corporation to levy toll on citizens who use the nation's highways?"

"There is an immense graft in this toll bridge business. In many cases the bond issues represent twice the value of the complete structures."

Nation Can Foot the Bill
"The national Government will afford to bear the entire expense of wiping out these bridges. The Federal contribution to our road program is not sufficient."

For example, Iowa has just authorized the expenditure of $14,000,000 on roads and is getting only $2,000,000 a year from the U. S. Government. Brookhart said he would introduce a bill to authorize the construction of toll bridges should be authorized. MacDonald recently amplified his views in an address before the American Association of State Highway Officials at Chicago.

"There is no place on the highway today for the privately-owned toll bridge," he declared, adding that an investigation should be made, with a view to remedying legislation.

GOV. SMITH BACK IN NEW YORK

Modifies Dental That He Will Resign New Bank.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Gov. Smith returned last night from two weeks' vacation in the South. He was met at the station by his wife and their children, and by a delegation of about 100 citizens. Gov. Smith was non-committal to questions as to his future plans. Starting to make a flat denial, he contemplated forming a coalition with a bank which John Haskok, his campaign manager, reported to plan establishing. Gov. Smith modified his reply somewhat, leaving the question open to the minds of his hearers.

By CHARLES G. ROSS, Chief Washington Correspondent of

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Senator
Smith W. Brookhart (Rep.), Iowa, has announced that he will introduce a bill to do away with privately-owned toll bridges on federal highways. Brookhart said he was in complete sympathy with the ideas of Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the Bureau of Public Roads, who stated in his recent annual report that highway bridges should be built by the public and not by private interests. McDonald's report was summarized in the Post-Dispatch last Sunday.

"The last Congress authorized the construction of 67 privately-owned toll bridges," said Brookhart.
"This is an absurd policy. Why should the Government expend hundreds of millions on the construction of good roads then permit
some individual or corporation to levy toll on citizens who use the nation's highways?"

"There is an immense graft in this toll bridge business. In many cases the bond issues represent twice the value of the completed structures."

Nation Can Foot the Bill.
"The national Government can well afford to bear the entire expense of building toll bridges,"
said Brookhart. "The Federal contribution to our road program is not sufficient."

"For example, Iowa has just authorized the expenditure of $140,- 000,000 on roads and is getting only $7,000,000 a year from Uncle
Sam. Congress should promptly condemn and buy every toll bridge and no more privately owned bridges should be authorized."

MacDonald recently amplified his views in an address before the American Association of State Highway Officials at Chicago.

"There is no place on the public highway today for the privately owned toll bridge," he declared, adding that an investigation should be made, with a view to remedial legislation.

Barring "Shoestring" Promoter.
"Here is a field," he said, "from which the 'shoestring' promoter
should be excluded and he will be,
if a thorough investigation is made."
The public can finance and build at lower cost. The largest bridge under construction in the country
today are being financed on the basis of their earnings. Two methods are being used: First, municipal bond issues to be retired from earnings, and second, revenue
bonds issued against the earnings, but not a municipal obligation. On the sense of adding to the constitutional indebtedness.

"Private toll bridges interests are attempting to defeat legislation favorable to themselves and are obstructing the efforts of highway departments to carry on State projects," he continued. "Since highway transportation has grown to its present dimensions, the possibilities of rich fields to exploit have been greatly multiplied and extended. Coincident with the finding of new uses or the more complete adaptation of this form of transport, come new proposals for interfering with the freedom of the road to fill a private purse."

Source of Earthquakes Traced in Ocean Depths

Naval Expedition in Submarine Finds Rifts
Hitherto Unrecorded—Continents
Pressed Towards Each Other.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Evidence of great earthquake-producing stresses in the earth's crust between North and South America
has been brought to Washington
by Dr. F. A. Vening Meinesz, Dutch geologist, after cruising for two months with the naval scientific expedition aboard the United States submarine S-21, which returned yesterday.

With this evidence, much of it
new to science, comes a suggestion that the two continents are pressing, imperceptibly, but with incalculable force, toward each other.
It discloses, clearly, Dr. Meinesz says, that stresses of the same kind which, in past geologic ages, piled up mountains and left deep scars
on the continents until equilibrium was reached, are still exerting their power beneath the oceans.

The most striking discovery was that of the existence of a great rift
in the earth's crust extending through the 4700-fathom (28,200 feet) or about five and one-quarter miles, Nares Deep, North of Porto Rico, westward to a point north of the eastern end of Cuba. Similar unstable conditions were discovered, in the extensive so-called Sigsbee Deep, in the southwestern part of the Gulf of Mexico, which is not, strictly, a deep but merely the deepest part of the gulf, reaching down 12,200 feet.

Like stresses also were found between Cuba and Jamaica, in the Bartlett Deep, which goes down 24,500 feet.

These discoveries are expected to be of great value to various government agencies and to contribute eventually toward the development of means of forecasting earthquakes and similar disturances. They represent the first participation by any government except that of the Netherlands in what scientists and naval authorities hope will become a worldwide survey of gravity variations

beneath the oceans, which are essential to a thorough knowledge of the form and forces in the earth's crust.

The existence of these stresses was discovered by measuring variations from normal in the force of gravity in the ocean bed with a device which makes use of the fact that the pull of gravity can be measured by its effect on a swinging pendulum. Instead of a single pendulum, which can be employed effectively on land, the Meinesz apparatus includes three pendulums
swinging in different directions, permitting accurate observations
when the pitching and rolling of the submarine in which it is mounted has been sufficiently modified by submergence to a depth of 75 or 80 feet. A sonic depth finder also was used throughout the trip.

The expedition's cruise covered 7000 miles along the continental shelf from Norfolk to Key West, thence across the Elizabet Deep to Galveston, Tex., over the Mississippi delta back to Key West, along both sides of Cuba, Haiti and Porto Rico, and back by a course which took the observers over the eastern end of the continental shelf.
In all, the submarine was submerged 49 times for gravity measurements, five being made within 18 hours in the Bartlett Deep.

Dr. Fred E. Wright of Carnegie Institution of Washington, and Elmer V. Collins of the hydro-graphic office of the Navy, are other scientists in the expedition.

Four destroyers were under orders to sail today from Manila for the devastated areas. The decision to send relief was made at a conference of navy officers and Governor-General Stimson, who has reported to Washington that the typhoon was equal in force to the recent hurricane in the Caribbean, and that aid of the American Red Cross might be needed.

Although no direct information was received as to the extent of damage to the sugar crop, it was reported here that the loss would not be serious.

A relief party from Manila left the cruiser Milwaukee at Catabalogan, Samar Island, with supplies today. The destroyer planned to leave today for Leyte with other Red Cross workers and provisions.

Relief Not Badly Needed.
Preliminary reports from the Milwaukee indicated that the need for emergency relief was not as great as was feared. The Milwaukee went to Leyte after having visited Samar, leaving Red Cross workers and relief supplies. The Milwaukee has reported that no extra relief work was needed at Le-gaspi.

Governor-General Stimson issued an executive order authorizing provincial governors in the stricken area to assume control and fix reasonable prices on privately owned supplies of staple food.
The destroyers, Popo, Truxton, Peary and John D. Ford departed for the typhoon area with medical supplies and foodstuffs.

Federal Reserve Board Reports Decline in Wholesale Com-

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Factory employment and payrolls during October were reported by the Federal Reserve Board yesterday to have reached the highest level
since the early part of 1927.

Reviewing economic conditions of the country during October and for the first three weeks in November, the Board, however, said that wholesale commodity prices declined to 97.8 per cent of the 1926 prices, reflecting chiefly large decreases in the prices of farm and food products and hides and leather. Most of the farm products recovered some of these losses during the first three weeks of November, the report added.

Four U. S. Destroyers Or-

By the Associated Press.
MANILA, Nov. 28.—The number of dead in the typhoon which swept the central part of the Philippine Islands last week was fixed today at 40 but estimates of the total fatalities run as high as 200. Ten thousands persons are reported homeless in the provinces
of Sorsogon, Albay and Masbate.
Property damage was estimated at millions of dollars.

Partly restored communication systems yesterday brought word
that a heavy loss of life occurred in the eastern district of Samar,
the storm, although reports from the districts bearing the maximum force of the typhoon had not reported directly. Hundreds of telegraph stations were put out of commission.

Average prices for October were 2 per cent lower than in September, the review said, but increases
occurred in prices of pig iron,
steel, copper, petroleum, building
materials, chemicals and rugs.

Between Oct. 24 and Nov. 21, a considerable increase was noted in loans and investments of member banks in the leading cities but the total was below that of the middle of the year. During the four weeks
there was little change recorded in the volume of reserve bank credit in use.

Industrial activity, the review said, generally continued high in October and considerably above that of a year ago. Automobile production, however, it added, declined in October and showed further reductions in November.

WILLIAM R. DAWES CHOSEN PRESIDENT OF VALLEY GROUP

Head of Chicago Association of Commerce Succeeds James E. Smith,
as Leader.

UPPER RIVER 9-FOOT CHANNEL IS URGED

Proposed Department of Public Works to Take Over Army Engineers' Duties Is Disapproved.

By the Associated Press.
The Mississippi Valley Association closed its tenth annual convention at Hotel Statler yesterday
with the election of William R.
Dawes, president of the Chicago
Association of Commerce and second cousin of Charles G. Dawes, Vice President of the United States,
as president of the association to succeed James E. Smith of St.
Louis, who has resigned after 20 years of waterways activity.

Thomas F. Cunningham, New Orleans, was re-elected vice president of the large and nine district vice-presidents were re-elected. They are: E. Y. Chapin, Chattanooga;
J. S. Cullinan, Houston; Walter S.
Dickey, Kansas City; E. T. Harris, Chicago; Walter Parker, New Orleans; C. E. Richardson, Sturgis, Ky.; W. Donaldson, Yankton, S.
D.; R. P. Warner, St. Paul, and J.
B. Waterman, Mobile. Three directors also were chosen for each of the 26 states in the association.

Smith's Work Praised.
Resolutions adopted at the closing session included indorsement
of the work of James E. Smith, indorsement of the work of army engineers; disapproval of the proposed creation of a Department of Public Works to take over the river and harbor work of the army engineers, and an appeal for the early creation of nine-foot channels in the main streams of the Mississippi system, including the upper Mississippi, Missouri, Illinois and Ohio rivers.

Leaders among the 1200 inland waterways advocates agreed that the outstanding development of the Mississippi valley was the two-day convention was the announcement by Mr. General T. J. Ashburn, chairman of the Inland Waterways Corporation, that he had been advised by officers of the American Railway Association that the railroads would withdraw their objection to the issuance of a bill for the commerce commission and that a conference between railroad executives and waterways advocates, to discuss rates, would be held in Washington Dec. 11.

Conference on Joint Rates.
Gen. Ashburn explained that a committee of six from the American Railway Association would meet with him, W. M. Hough, New Orleans, traffic manager for the Government barge line, and Major-General Hull of Washington, to churn out the question of joint rates, instead of appealing to the United States Supreme Court which would delay publishing of the tariffs possibly two years.

The spirit of co-operation in the fight for nine-foot channels and the withdrawal of sectional interests by speakers who maintained that the development of the entire Mississippi valley system was more important, also were interpreted as important tendencies in this year's gathering.

The resolution indorsing the work of army engineers, usually submitted by the Resolutions Committee as a formality, provoked a dispute in the committee yesterday
when delegates from upper Mississippi cities protested against the engineers' indorsement of a six-foot channel above St. Louis. The committee approved the resolution by a vote of 12 to 9 before sending it to the floor of the meeting
where all resolutions and nominations were approved unanimously.

GROWS NEW BEARD WHILE IN PRISON FOR REFUSAL TO SHAVE

Rabbinical Student, Polish Soldier,
Still Reluctant to Obey Religious Rule.

By the Associated Press.
WARSAW, Nov. 28.—After four months in military prison for refusal to obey his superior's order to shave off his beard in accom-pliance with army regulations, Hirsch Frenkel, rabbinical student of Tar-nopol, emerged from prison yesterday with a new beard.

Frenkel faced his beard problem
all over again when he rejoined his regiment and declared with his conscience would not permit him to violate the Biblical injunction against shaving his beard.

The student addressed a new petition to the military authorities and to Prime Minister Bartel to grant him permission to keep his beard.

Why Massachusetts Sent D. I. Walsh, Democrat, Back to Senate by 122,000 Plurality

For Years, Man Who Ran Ahead of Gov. Smith in State Has Polled Big Republican Vote.

DAVID I. WALSH

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
BOSTON, Nov. 28.—Massachusetts, here she stands—Republicans and Democrats alike—for Senator David I. Walsh. And she stands solidly, too.

It really wasn't much of a surprise to have Walsh outdistance
Gov. Smith by a good margin Nov.
6, while at the same time the Democratic party's state ticket went down in defeat. Republicans in Massachusetts have been marking an X in front of Walsh's name for more than a quarter century.

It was a warm tribute and an appropriate birthday present the voters of President Coolidge's State gave to Senator Walsh when they returned him to the Senate
with a plurality of 122,000 over
B. Loring Young, former speaker in the State Legislature, his Republican opponent.

The re-elected Democrat, who was 56 years old Armistice day, evidently didn't suffer much from the speeches by President-elect Hoover, Senator Borah and Charles Evans Hughes in favor of Young. Their pleadings were of no avail against the man who disclosed corruption in the Veterans' Bureau which sent Director Forbes
harding appointed to the penitentiary. Massachusetts knows Walsh and stands by him. As his posters read, he is "the people's candidate."

Coolidge's Appeal in Vain.
Senator Walsh defeated William
M. Butler, former chairman of the Republican National Committee,
two years ago by 55,000 votes. And he did it in face of a personal appeal by President Coolidge that Massachusetts elect Butler, who had been appointed, to fill the vacancy left by the death of Henry Cabot Lodge. The thorough trouncing Walsh gave Butler is considered one of the harshest rebuffs
President Coolidge has received.

The lesson was well learned. Not a step came from the White House
in behalf of the Young candidacy
this year. The policy was "hands off" and at a safe distance. Election stoves are likely to be pretty hot if the speeches of David I.
Walsh are firing the voters. Despite his taciturnity, the President
did make a special trip to Northampton to vote. The Bay State regarded the move as a silent request for Young's election, but failed to grant it.

In 1926 Senator Walsh lost his seat to Senator Frederick H. Gillett by 18,500. Despite the defeat, the result was a great personal victory,
the proportions of which are amazing when it is remembered President Coolidge carried the State by more than 422,000 votes. Walsh is the only Democratic Senator Massachusetts has elected to a full six-year term since before the Civil War.

Walsh's Career.
He first went to the upper chamber in 1918, when he defeated John W. Weeks, later Secretary of War in the Harding Cabinet.
How could a Democrat win a seat
in the United States Senate from Massachusetts, a state so republican in its Republicanism?
The answer is: The voters knew their Walsh. He had already proved his capability as a State official. They had faith in what he would do at Washington. His career of public service within the State had ranged from membership in the Commonwealth's House of Representatives to Governor. Along the way, he had served as Lieutenant-Governor and one of the framers of the State's new Constitution. The resolutions enacted during his stay at the State Capitol, and others he advocated that since have been carried out, are notable.

A native of the Bay State, having been born in the small town of Leominster, Walsh has always lived and worked with his people.
He was the ninth child in a family of ten. That was back in the days when combs were made from cattle horns. His father was a president in a comb factory. The president's job was to heat the split
combs before the fire and press them out flat. A slump in business closed the factories about the time
the ninth child was born.

He Has Known Poverty.
When Senator Walsh speaks
about unemployment and the suffering that goes with it, he is talking from experience. The workers in New Madrid and other slack Massachusetts towns these days
know what hard times are.

The boyhood of Walsh extended over years that were lean for the Walsh family. The father worked at everything and anything. Frequently, though, there wasn't any work to do. The children went to work in the mills and other places
as soon as they were old enough.
Even before that, they began contributing to the family income.
They gathered blueberries and sold them from door to door. By the time David was 7 years old he was weaving canes into chair bottoms. When he was 12 his father died. How the penniless mother

BRITTEN PROPOSES ENGLAND AND U. S. HOLD CONFERENCE ON SEA STRENGTH

In Message to Premier, Congressman Suggests House
Naval Committee Meet
Parliament Group.

ADVOCATES PARLEY IN CANADA NEXT YEAR

Would Discuss Equality as to All War Vessels Not Affected by Washington Arms Conference.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Chairman Britten of the House Naval Affairs Committee, in a cablegram
to Stanley Baldwin, Prime Minister of Great Britain, suggested that members of the House Naval Af-airs Committee and a committee
from the British Parliament hold a joint meeting in Canada after March 4 to discuss equality of sea
power between the two countries
on all classes of war vessels not affected by the Washington arms conference.

The committees would report the result of the discussions and recommendations to their Governments after the fashion of the inter-Parliamentary Union.

Britten said his proposal came about as the result of a statement made by Premier Baldwin on Nov.
13, the Prime Minister having been quoted as saying he believed that more frequent personal discussions between American and British representatives would lead to better understanding and feeling.

Text of Message.
The text of the cablegram follows:
"Recalling your publicly expressed desire of Nov. 13 for more frequent personal discussions between American and British representatives and remembering very pleasantly my personal participation in inter-parliamentary conferences both here and in Europe, I am impelled to suggest a joint meeting of the Committee on Naval Affairs of the United States House of Representatives and a select committee of members of Parliament for the purpose of friendly
discussion and the hearing of testimony in connection with applying the principle of equality in power between Great Britain and the United States on all ships of war
not already covered by the Washington treaty."

Meetings to take place preferably in Canada after March 4, 1929, and each committee will report with recommendations to its respective Government just as may now be done annually by the various groups of the Inter-Parliamentary Union.

"Where there is so much genuine regret among the peoples of England and America over the fall-ure of the last Geneva naval limitation conference, surely some way should be found for a meeting before 1931 when the five leading naval powers will assemble at Washington. I will respect your personal desires in connection with these suggestions."

Kellogg Not Aware of Plan.
At the State Department it was said Secretary Kellogg had no knowledge of the plan, and it was indicated that the procedure was not in line with the policy which placed the conduct of foreign affairs in the hands of the president.
Navy officials had no comment to make.

In a statement issued in connection with his cablegram, Britten cited his authority for the proposed meeting as section 8 of the Constitution providing "that Congress shall make rules for the Government and regulation of the land and naval forces and that it shall provide and maintain a navy for the common defense and general welfare of the United States."

Members of his committee, he added, all belong to the Inter-Parliamentary Union.

Delegates of the Inter-Parliamentary Union come from Parliamentary agencies of their Governments. They have the privilege of speaking officially for their Governments but are not clothed with powers necessary to the negotiation of international agreements.

Wants All to Be Civilians.
"In many quarters," Britten said,
"the failure of the last limitations conference has been attributed to their composition of military men and while I do not agree with this presumption, I would prefer to see both committees composed entirely of nonmilitary men."

"America's naval policy has never been competitive but on the contrary has always been defensive and rarely commensurate with the world position of the United States."

University Extension Work.
An accomplishment which has given Senator Walsh a great deal of satisfaction is the provision by the State of educational opportunities for people who were destitute.

JOHN G. NEIHARDT

"Making Hokku"

COLLECTED POEMS. By Richard Aldington (Covici Friede, N. Y.)

It is almost certain that in any appreciation of Richard Aldington's poetry there will be found a statement regarding his alleged "Attic sense of beauty." Surely "Attic" would be a much better epithet, for there are occasional poems, passages and lines in Aldington's work that suggest the Sapphic mood and manner, much as shadow suggests substance; but the beauty, as it is to be felt in the great Attic poets, is not suggested at all.

Aldington may be described as one whose profession it is to be exquisite; his poetry is no doubt sincere enough and very often it is praiseworthy when judged within the small and isolated reference scheme out of which and for which it was produced. That scheme is such as may appear important only to super-civilized and very exclusive circles through which the great tides of the living world do not flow. In excluding the world, it is that they are excluded. Such poetry is the product of what may be termed a cultural short-circuit. It represents withdrawal from life, not a glorification of it through an organic vision of the world, but an apparently discordant fragment. It was by the latter process—the long-circuiting of the life force, as one might say—that the true Attic sense of beauty was developed, as anyone may note by reading the great Attic poets. Even the Sapphic mood was the product of the great life currents flowing through a self-abandoning personality.

If Aldington's vision of beauty may be described as Attic, it must be in a false, conventional sense that has developed, not out of actual intimacy with and love for the great Greek poets, but rather out of a great deal of aesthetic riddle about them. There was nothing "exquisite," nothing lady-like or lily-fingered about Aeschylus, Sophocles, Euripides. They were great because of their robust acceptance of the wonder and the terror and the pity of human destiny, which they strove to see "as it was."

As for Aldington's attitude towards life and art, it seems that he may have expressed it himself in the following:

"One night when the guns were still
I leaned against the trench
Making for myself hokku
Of the moon and flowers and of the snow."

Piddling with word patterns and pretty conceits in a cosmos like this? What great Attic poet ever did it?

It is because the idea of poetry is so commonly associated with that sort of inconsequential dabble that so many honest-to-goodness men are led to believe they despise poetry. They cannot, being human; they have only been misled.

STRANGE BEDFELLOWS.

By Silas Bent. (Horace Liveright.)

"I PROPOSE no panacea," says Silas Bent in his preface. "I attempt only to report." His comments, he says, are "offered mildly as a suggestion, not a solution." This carries the idea that the people, if the facts are placed before them, will do something about it. If they don't, it will be their own fault, they having been informed. That is not the attitude taken by the daily press, or by the most enterprising periodicals. They take no chances with public stupidity and inertia. They not only tell the people the facts, they advise them what to do, and get a committee appointed.

Mr. Bent, whose "Ballyhoo" was a stimulating survey of the American press, gives the readers of this book a variety of themes for solicited rumination. The chapters on Herbert Hoover and Gov. Smith do not lose interest from the passing of the campaign; but the chapter on public neglect to vote has less cogency in a year when, as in St. Louis, some 33 per cent of the voters failed to vote. The chapter on "Plutocracy" is a searching view of "the sincerest man in public life," who, however, is under suspicion of having juggled his age in successive volumes of "Who's Who."

Back to the theme of his former book, the shortcomings of the Press, Bent comes in chapters on "International Window Smashing," "The A. P. and Journalistic Jazz," Hearst and Ochs. "The Almighty Dollar" is the subject of another section of the book. At a time when the American people seem strongly attached to material progress—a fact which some deplore so strongly that they accent all four syllables of the word—Bent's chapters on "Capitalism," "Prosperity" and "If I Had All That Money" are of great interest. The former tells how Wall Street has built some great industries, in contrast to the upbuilding of others by a single person, notably Ford. The latter chapter deals with donations and bequests which have outlived their intended public service, such as the Mullaphy Emigrant Relief Fund in St. Louis. The title of the book comes from a proverb about the odd comradeship engendered by politics. C. F. H.

WOMEN'S ORCHESTRA

Ethel Leginska Conducts Boston Organization Before Civic Music League.

By THOMAS B. SHERMAN.

The Boston Women's Orchestra, with Ethel Leginska, wielding the baton gave a concert last night at the Odeon as a part of the Civic Music League series. A large audience sat, listened and applauded with more enthusiasm than judgment. Even so it was not an occasion that should be dismissed, thoughtfully, as an interesting novelty.

Though Madame Leginska and her sister artists exhibited more technical and interpretive defects than one could mention, it was more to the point to call attention to the excellent attacks, releases and the generally clean phrasing of the orchestra. And despite the fact that there were not enough violas and double-basses in proportion to the first and second violins the passages did not sound so terribly out of balance.

Madame Leginska's conception of the music she was playing was, on the whole, sound and professional. Exceptions should be made of the first two movements of Beethoven's Fifth Symphony. The first movement was so slow that this reviewer wanted to get out and push several times. Among the 50 musicians that make up this orchestra many of them have had less than a year's experience with the instruments they are now playing. It is not an easy task to make horn players out of the first two girls that are willing to try it. Even among seasoned male symphony players good sound and woodwinds are rare. Making this into consideration one would be more than a little mean if he did not give Madame Leginska a bow from the waist for her courage. I should also like to hand a sprig of laurel to the lady who played the double-bass and doubled with the tuba and mention the fact that the first clarinet player is a good one.

Besides Beethoven's Fifth Symphony the orchestra played the "Oberon Overture," "The Dance of the Fools" from Rimsky-Korsakov's "Snow Maiden," Wagner's "Rienzi Overture" and Mendelssohn's G Minor Piano concerto with Madame Leginska at the piano. Despite the difficulties of playing and conducting at the same time she gave a sensitive reading of the concerto.

THANKSGIVING DONATION DAY FOR MULLAPHY HOSPITAL

Hundredth Annual Appeal for Gifts in Serving Poor—Has No Endowments.

Thanksgiving day will be the hundredth annual Donation day for the Mullaphy Hospital. The hospital has no endowments and this is the only appeal made for cash donations to be used in serving the poor.

The report of the hospital for the year ending Oct. 1 shows 2,133 patients cared for, and $34,297.63 as the cost of care for non-paying patients. The free clinic treated 6,053 patients at a cost of $9,046.81, bringing the total cost of charity work of the hospital and clinic to $43,344.44.

Novena at Rock Church. A novena in honor of Our Mother of Perpetual Help will be held at St. Alphonsus (Rock) Church, Grand boulevard and Finney avenue, starting Friday and ending Dec. 8, the feast of the Immaculate Conception. Services will be at 7 and 10 o'clock each morning and in the afternoon and evening at 2, 3:30, 4:45, 7:15 and 8:30 o'clock. Services will be conducted by three Redemptorist missionaries.

COUNT'S BRIDE-ELECT

Estelle Manville Will Be Married Saturday to Swedish King's Nephew.

PERHAPS no international marriage of recent years is of as much interest to St. Louis as that of Miss Estelle Manville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Edward Manville of New York and Pleasantville, N. Y., and Count Folke Bernadotte of Wisborg, nephew of the King of Sweden, to take place Saturday afternoon in St. John's Church, Pleasantville. The bride-elect is well known in St. Louis society. She served as an attendant here to the wedding of Miss Katherine Steedman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Fox Steedman, and Albert Pope Hinckley of Boston, a year ago, and has accompanied the former Miss Steedman to Europe and on big game hunting expeditions in the West. Mr. and Mrs. Hinckley are now making their home on the Manville estate, and were present at the betrothal dinner.

The bridegroom is a member of the ruling house of Sweden. He is the second son of Prince Oscar, the Princess Bernadotte, and is a direct descendant of Marshal Bernadotte of Napoleon's army.

Because of the smallness of the church, invitations to the ceremony have been limited, but a large reception will be held afterward at "El-Esmaro," the Manville estate. The ceremony is to be performed by the Right Rev. Ernest M. Stires, Protestant Episcopal Bishop of Long Island, assisted by the Rev. Emmons P. Burrill, rector of St. John's Church, and the Rev. John N. Lewis Jr., of the Westover School in Connecticut, which Miss Manville attended.

There will be a large wedding party. Miss Marian G. Willard, daughter of Mrs. W. Eugene Kihlball, will be maid of honor, and the bridesmaids are to be Miss Ethel Schiewind, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schiewind, whose engagement to H. Edward Manville Jr. has been announced; Miss Lydia E. Dudson, who also has been visited in St. Louis; Miss Elizabeth Kountze, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman D. Kountze; and Miss Renee Baruch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard M. Baruch. Jack Strong, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Strong, and Elizabeth Ashforth, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Adams Ashforth, will be cushion bearers.

Prince Gustavus Adolphus, eldest son of the Crown Prince of Sweden and heir presumptive to the throne, a cousin of the bridegroom, will be best man. The ushers will be Count Carl Bernadotte, brother of the bridegroom; Baron Siegfried Rasmussen, Baron Carl Erik von Platen, Count Pehr Sparre, and Lieut. Johan Enhojning, Carl Lagercrantz and Goesta Pauli, fellow officers of Count Bernadotte in the Swedish Royal bodyguard, and H. Edward Manville Jr., brother of the bride.

Count Bernadotte and his bride will take a short wedding trip in this country, sailing later for Sweden, where they will live at Karlavagn 37, Stockholm.

ROLLA SCHOOL OF MINES

ENROLLMENT AT HIGH MARK

495 Students, Nearly Half Being Freshmen, Crowd Facilities of Institution.

By the Associated Press.

ROLLA, Mo., Nov. 28.—Enrollment at the School of Mines and Metallurgy this fall totals 495, the largest in the history of the school. The largest increase was in the freshman class, approximately 15 per cent over the class for last year, with a total of 199 registered. There are 28 states and seven foreign countries represented in the enrollment, the foreign countries being Germany, China, Turkey, Bolivia, Belgium, Russia and England.

The heavy increase in the freshman class is taxing the school's facilities and with the corresponding increase in the sophomore class next year some of the departments will be crowded. The physics department has desk space for less than 100 students. Physics is a sophomore subject, and the present class of 199 freshmen will return about 130 sophomores next fall. The drawing department and the mathematics department are similarly crowded. The chemistry department this year had desk space for 200 freshmen and the registration ran up to 199.

TO DEDICATE ATHLETIC FIELD

Wellston School Officers to Participate in Ceremonies Tomorrow.

The new Wellston Public School Athletic Field, at Plymouth and Sutter avenues, will be dedicated prior to the first contest to be played on the field, at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

Following the dedication ceremonies, when Mrs. George J. Perival, President of the Board of Education, will turn the key of the stadium over to Superintendent of Public Schools Ernest F. Bush, the annual football game will be played between Normandy and Wellston High Schools.

Breakfast for Zeppelin Pair. Clarence Terhune, stowaway, and Joseph D. Joesel, a passenger on the Graf Zeppelin on its return flight to Germany, will be guests at a breakfast at Hotel Chase tomorrow given by Sidney Salomon, president and general manager of the B. S. Nugent & Bros. Dry Goods Co. Mayor Miller, Mayor Doyle of East St. Louis, and a group of business men also have been invited to attend.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

"CEDAR RUN FARM" the attractive, rambling country home of Mr. and Mrs. George A. H. Mills in Jefferson County will be the scene of a simple Thanksgiving wedding tomorrow afternoon when their daughter, Miss Helen Mills will become the bride of Howard Kimball Richmond.

The house, set, as its name implies, in a grove of fragrant cedar trees, will be simply decorated with cut flowers. The ceremony will be performed in the living room before a wide double window by the Rev. Dr. Ivan Lee Holt of St. John's Methodist Church. An informal reception will follow.

The bride will be gowned in white satin, made simply in a sheath-like effect with no trimming except for a rose point lace yoke, pointed in the center of the bodice and continuing into a cascade around a deep U to the waist in the back.

The close fitting satin sleeves are edged in rose point. An unusual train, depending from the waistline, is heavily shirred at the top and spreads in slender half points several yards on the floor. The tulle veil shaped similarly to the train will fall from tulle cap edged in a rose point lace coronet with strands of orange blossoms across the back, ending in clusters at either side. The bride will carry white roses and lilies of the valley.

Her only attendant will be her cousin, Miss Mary Louise Wadsworth of Charlotte, N. C., who will wear green chiffon with a green and gold metallic cloth jacket so smart this season, and will carry yellow roses.

Mr. Richmond and his bride will go South on their wedding trip and will return to spend the holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Mills before making further plans.

"Cedar Run Farm" is about 30 miles south of St. Louis on Highway 61, 12 miles below the Meramec River bridge.

The Bridespur Hunt Club will celebrate Thanksgiving with a real fox hunt, the first of its kind held by the club. The red-coated "whips" who will lead the pack, and the field, who have been invited to ride with them to the hounds, will meet at the clubhouse on Denney and Manchester roads at 10 o'clock in the morning, and will ride to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Webster Tilton, on Mason road, where the chase is to begin.

The whips will be Mrs. Louis A. Hager Jr., Mr. Hager, August A. Busch Jr., Roy Siegel, Adalbert von Conrad, Edward L. Bakewell and Arthur Prece.

The field will be composed of Mrs. August A. Busch Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Bradford Shinkle, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew W. Johnson, and their young daughter, Miss Martha Johnson; Howard V. Stephens, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Langenberg and their young daughter, Miss Bonnie Langenberg; Mr. and Mrs. Tilton, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene F. Williams Jr., Mr. and Mrs. John Gates Williams, Miss Jacqueline Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Drummond Jones; Miss Marie Elanc-Busch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adolphus Busch III; Miss Mary Patus, daughter of Mrs. Charles Parsons Pettus; Miss Marceline Reayburn, Miss Medora Steedman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Fox Steedman, who will make her debut at the St. Louis Country Club tonight; Mrs. Edward L. Bakewell, George S. Tiffany, Arthur Hickman, George Vest and John Schiff of New York, who is a guest at Hotel St. Louis.

Following the hunt the riders will return to the club for Thanksgiving luncheon. The tables will be decorated with yellow chrysanthemums.

New Year's eve there will be a large dinner dance for the club members and their guests, and on Jan. 5 a dinner dance will be given there for Miss Janet Orthwein, debutante daughter of Mrs. Frederick C. Orthwein, 15 Portland place, by her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William D. Orthwein.

Two elaborate luncheons are on the social calendar at the St. Louis Country Club tomorrow. Miss Elise Whittemore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton L. Whittemore of 6420 Forsythe boulevard, will entertain 40 of the debutantes of the season at a luncheon for Miss Louise Church, daughter of Mrs. Rolla Wells; Miss Marie Peckham Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Graham Wilson Jr., and Miss Lullie Simpson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Welch Stimmings.

An out-of-town guest, Miss Romaine Bristol of New York, who is visiting Miss Rocena Baldwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Warrington Baldwin, 28 Westmoreland place, will be the guest of honor at a luncheon for 50 guests to be given by Miss Baldwin.

Cards have been received for a mixed luncheon to be given by Mrs. H. Chouteau Dyer, 29 Lenox place, Sunday, Dec. 23, at the St. Louis Country Club in honor of her young daughter, Miss Ethel Dyer. Miss Dyer, a student at Bryn Mawr College, will return home the middle of December for the Christmas holidays.

An informal Thanksgiving day mixed tea tomorrow afternoon will be given by Miss Elizabeth Cabell Gray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cabell Gray and her brother, William Alden Gray, at their home, 5955 Clemens avenue. The guests have been invited to call between 5 and 7 o'clock.

The young women serving will be Miss Elizabeth Harris, Miss Louise Rexford, Miss Elizabeth

MISS JANET BOND HARRIS

MISS HARRIS, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher R. Harris of Dorset and Adie roads, Ferguson, will be maid of honor at the wedding of her sister, Miss Xalissa Reid Harris and R. Langford Ballenger of San Francisco, late this afternoon.

Gemp, Miss Josephine Adreon, debutantes of the season, and Miss Martha Schuyler, Miss Laura Capen, Miss Martha Strickler, Miss Anita Bowling, Miss Louise Gray and Miss Martha Lawd.

Mrs. George Reismeyer Jr., 6454 Cecil avenue, will give a tea this afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock for her daughter, Miss Dorothy Ann. The following girls who are classmates of the guest of honor at Mary Institute, will serve: Miss Janette Bell, Miss Helen Branahl, Miss Virginia Coyle, Miss Virginia Forline, Miss Helen Fourbacher, Miss Clara Frampton, Miss Mary Frances Grote, Miss Marjorie Henger and Miss Rosemary Rolwing. The girls serving and their escorts will be entertained at a buffet supper by Mrs. Reismeyer following the tea.

Mrs. Josephine Salomone Scullin, 4639 Maryland avenue, will return home Sunday from a visit of two weeks in New York.

Mrs. John Young Brown Sr. has closed her country home near Baldwin, Mo., and is at the Forest Park Hotel for the winter.

A doctor on upper Fifth avenue has acquired a 39-room apartment. And thus the 20-room apartment becomes no longer a novelty among the rich. It all means the passing of those palatial mansions, such as that of the late Senator Clark, in New York. Realty values are too tremendous for even millionaires to support a castle.

So the nearest Manhattan can come to a glorified private dwelling is the penthouse on the roof of high-flung buildings. These permit a little terraced ground about them, formal gardens for informal parties, a few open verandas, and there is one with an arbored walk at the end of which is a beautiful vista of the city.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.

RECENTLY I returned from California, with the quaint tale of a 38-room hilltop house built for a childless married couple out yonder. At the few gatherings where I cleared my throat impressively to tell about it the excitement was quite negligible.

It appears that around the corner and up Fifth avenue a few blocks from where I board there is a 41-room duplex apartment occupied by a gentleman who lives alone save for his servants. He has, incidentally, 18 rooms for his help, leaving a paltry 23 for his own use.

The bare apartment cost $375,000, but with furnishings stands the owner—a Mr. Markle from Wilkes-Barre, with coal mines—a million. It has everything, including a block-long Roman pool and a private switchboard with some 20 extensions and a day and night operator.

Mr. Markle, it seems, shrinks from publicity. He shoots snoring reporters and photographers away. He wants to live simply and quietly, wandering about among his art treasures. Those who know say the mere upkeep of such a castle-like apartment costs $75,000 a year.

In a building to be erected on Park avenue in the seventies a middle-aged bachelor is to see Mr. Markle and raise him 12 rooms. He will have 63 rooms in all—16 of which are to be designed to meet special needs of his friends when they are house guests.

A doctor on upper Fifth avenue has acquired a 39-room apartment. And thus the 20-room apartment becomes no longer a novelty among the rich. It all means the passing of those palatial mansions, such as that of the late Senator Clark, in New York. Realty values are too tremendous for even millionaires to support a castle.

So the nearest Manhattan can come to a glorified private dwelling is the penthouse on the roof of high-flung buildings. These permit a little terraced ground about them, formal gardens for informal parties, a few open verandas, and there is one with an arbored walk at the end of which is a beautiful vista of the city.

The Outstanding Chevrolet

of Chevrolet History

- a Six in the price range of the four!

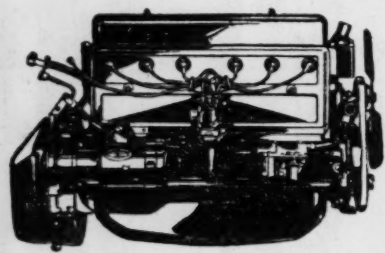

Although the whole country was looking forward to its presentation with eager expectation—

—although it had been freely predicted that the new Chevrolet would represent the most spectacular of all Chevrolet achievements—

—the announcement of The Outstanding Chevrolet of Chevrolet History—a Six in the price range of the four—has proved to be the greatest sensation of America's greatest industry!

Everyone was familiar with Chevrolet's brilliant record of success. Everyone knew that Chevrolet had become the world's largest builder of automobiles by establishing, year after year, new standards of performance, beauty and quality in the low-priced field. But no one ever dreamed that it would be possible to provide, in the price range of the four, a six of such startling performance, such impressive appearance and such luxurious comfort.

When you learn the full details of this sensational new automobile, you will realize that Chevrolet has provided those qualities of six-cylinder smoothness, reserve power and flashing acceleration which heretofore could only be enjoyed in cars of much higher price.

Chevrolet's new six-cylinder fully enclosed valve-in-head engine has a high compression non-detonating head. Its piston displacement is 194 cu. in. and it develops 46 H. P. at low engine speed.

The Outstanding Chevrolet is powered by a new six-cylinder valve-in-head engine of advanced design. Over one hundred different engines were created, built, tested and improved during the past four years before the present design was adopted. Millions of miles of testing at the General Motors Proving Ground and in various parts of the country have definitely established its stamina, dependability and economy under every possible condition of usage.

It develops 32% more power than the previous Chevrolet motor and affords sensationally greater speed and faster acceleration. And despite this vastly improved performance, an economy averaging better than twenty miles to the gallon of gasoline!

Marvelous new bodies by Fisher are an outstanding feature of the Outstanding Chevrolet.

Numerous engineering advancements make possible these amazing performance results. A new non-detonating cylinder head provides high compression performance without special fuels. The new hot-spot manifold assures complete fuel vaporization. The new and larger carburetor incorporates an automatic acceleration pump, and an improved venturi choke for quicker winter starting; while a new AC gasoline pump, with filter, assures adequate fuel supply no matter how steep the hill.

A new heavier crankshaft statically and dynamically balanced makes torsional vibration imperceptible at all speeds—due partly to its exceptional size and partly to the relative shortness of its crank-throws. The entire rocker arm mechanism is automatically lubricated; and this, combined with the new camshaft, new large valve tappets, new fabric camshaft gear and the new muffling system results in delightful silence of operation. Long engine life is provided for by a new type AC air cleaner and by a new method of continuous self-purification of the crankcase oil—while an improved system of crankcase ventilation minimizes oil dilution, particularly during winter use.

Impressive as it is, however, this superb power plant is only one phase of the advanced engineering revealed in the Outstanding Chevrolet. Big, powerful, easily adjustable four-wheel brakes give positive, safe control—with silent operation assured under all conditions by semi-molded linings and a new brake band design. The steering mechanism is fully equipped with ball bearings and the new steering wheel is of the flat slender rimmed type—an important contribution to ease of control.

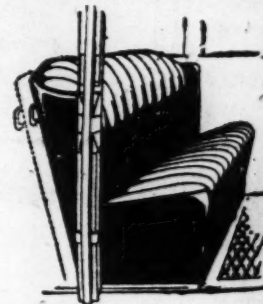

The new and quieter transmission contains heavier gears of vanadium steel while the driving gear and pinion are made of 3½% nickel steel—the finest gear material known to metallurgical science. And, also, there are provided such costly car features as two-beam headlamps with toe button control for "dimming," new type cooling thermostat, semi-automatic spark control, theft-proof Electrolock, waterproof spark-coil construction, larger shielded safety gasoline tank in rear, improved differential lubrication and many other features of comparable importance.

If the Outstanding Chevrolet offered only this impressive array of mechanical advancements, it would still be hailed as a sensational achievement in modern automotive design. But, in addition, it offers an order of beauty, distinction and style never before attained in any low-priced automobile!

bile! The long high hood and the gleaming chromium plated radiator shell furnish the key note of rugged smartness and grace. The rakish unbroken lines, emphasized by distinctively grouped hood louvres, are suggestive of speed and alertness. The divided body moulding and concave front pillars reflect the vogue so widely favored by leading custom builders; while the larger, longer, lower bodies are themselves masterful examples of the craftsmanship for which Fisher is internationally renowned.

The seats are wider and more restful. The driver's seat in all closed models is easily adjustable, forward or back—a feature recently introduced on a few of the high-priced cars. The redesigned dash carries an attractive grouping of all control instruments indirectly lighted including the new motor temperature indicator.

The driver's seat in all closed models is easily adjustable forward or back by means of a handle regulator. This brings the clutch and brake pedals within proper reach for all drivers.

Climaxing sixteen years of continuous progress... revealing new performance, new beauty, new quality and dependability... priced so amazingly low as to be within the reach of everybody, everywhere—

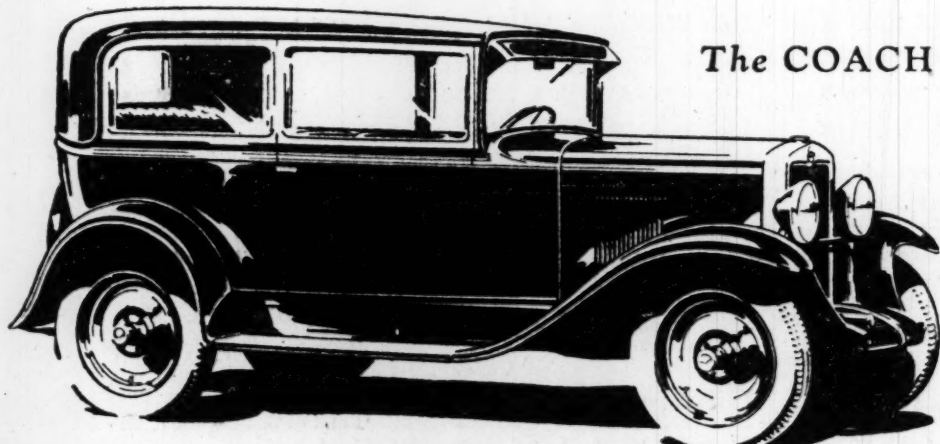

—this sensational new Chevrolet represents the greatest dollar-for-dollar value ever offered in any automobile!

We cordially invite you to visit our showroom and secure complete and detailed information regarding this great new car which will be ready for delivery beginning January 1st.

50-Passenger Plane Being Built for Ocean Service

Giant Craft Under Construction by Zeppelin
Subsidiary to Have Crew of 10 and Carry 20 Tons of Freight.

By the Associated Press.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Nov. 28.—The Dornier Construction Works on Lake Constance, affiliated with the Zeppelin works, is completing a superplane for trans-Atlantic service. For months the construction of this giant airplane has been going on with all the secrecy of wartime at the shops on the Swiss side of the lake, from which all visitors have been barred.

This new airplane is not intended as an actual enlargement of the Dornier superwings, but rather as a revolutionizing type with which it is hoped to solve the question whether the airship or the airplane is to be the trans-oceanic conveyance of the future.

The body of this plane is not a boat but a substantially constructed ship fit to weather the most tempestuous ocean waves when it may be found necessary to land on the water.

Built With Massive Walls. It is built with massive walls and the interior is divided into a series of water-tight bulkheads to prevent the entire ship from being flooded in case water leaks in. The hull is reinforced with a keel to steady the ship in a high sea.

Its bow is surmounted by a conning-tower comprising the captain's bridge and pilot's cage, a chart and navigation room and a wireless cabin.

The span is wings measures 164 feet. Twelve motors arranged in tandem formation, six in front and six behind the wings, will supply a motor energy totaling 6000 horsepower.

The crew will consist of a captain, two pilots, two wireless operators, one navigation officer, two mechanics and two stewards.

There will be room for 50 passengers and for 20 tons of freight. With its full cargo, the vessel will weigh 45 tons.

Maximum Speed 118 Miles. Its maximum speed will be 118 miles an hour and it will have a flying radius of 1860 miles. Over the wings an emergency deck has been erected and between these two surfaces the 12 motors will be mounted.

For the vessel's takeoff the entire motor power will be required to lift it from the water, but in the air only half of the motor energy will be required.

There will be a salon larger than that of the Graf Zeppelin and there will be an electrically operated kitchen.

The airplane is being built for the German Lufthansa and is intended for service across the South Atlantic via the Canaries-Cape Verde Island—and the Island of Fernando Noronha off the coast of Brazil.

MAN IDENTIFIED AS ROBBER OF CANDY STORE FREE ON ALIBI

Residents of Fredericksburg, Mo., Say Norman Levy Was Visiting There at Time of Holdup.

Although he was identified as the man who held up the candy store at 4709 Delmar boulevard, Aug. 22, Norman Levy, of 22 Lewis place, was freed by Judge Gayer in the Court of Criminal Correction at a preliminary hearing yesterday after four residents of Fredericksburg, Mo., testified that he was visiting in that town at the time of the robbery.

Miss Margaret Freels, cashier of the candy store, who caused Levy's arrest Nov. 2, testified she was positive he was the robber. Policemen testified Levy never had been in trouble before, to their knowledge.

WOULD MAKE SCHOOL BOARD APPOINTEE

Democratic Member of Body
Proposes Legislature Authorize Mayor to Name Members.

Appointment of Board of Education members by the Mayor, in place of their election by the voters, as at present, is provided in a proposed amendment to the State laws, drafted by William F. Fahey, attorney and Democratic member of the Election Board.

Fahey has written to State Senator Michael Kinney, asking him to introduce the measure. In a letter to Kinney, he says that the present system tends to keep desirable persons from becoming candidates. Those who would run for the Board of Education must circulate petitions, getting some 7000 signatures. Some of those best qualified for service on the board, Fahey suggests, would not undertake the task of circulating petitions, and of campaigning subsequently. Members of the board serve without salary.

Formerly, Fahey recalls, an agreement between party committees kept the board bi-partisan, but this arrangement has lapsed, and it is his opinion that the standard of character and ability on the board has declined.

"I do not mean to say there are no good men and women on the board," he writes, "but it is generally felt that the boards of later years do not compare at all favorably with the boards which served when Messrs. Soldan and Blewett were Superintendents."

As the Mayor now has the power of appointment to fill vacancies on the board, Fahey suggests that he should have the power and responsibility of naming the entire body. His bill provides for six-year terms and that the board shall be bi-partisan.

It would carry an emergency clause, and if passed and approved by the Governor, would go into effect before the April election, when in the regular course, members would be elected.

WASHINGTON AND ST. LOUIS ELEVENS READY FOR ANNUAL GRID BATTLE

BEARS ARE SLIGHT FAVORITES, BUT DOPE THROUGH CREIGHTON POINTS TO BILLIKENS VICTORY

Washington and St. Louis University football teams meet in their annual game for the collegiate championship of the city at Sportman's Park tomorrow afternoon, starting at 2 o'clock. Both squads are ready for the engagement. The Billikens want a dry field, while a heavy turf will favor the heavier Bear eleven.

Neither team has done anything sensational this season. The Billikens rose to great heights on one occasion when Creighton was defeated. However, other performances were only ordinary. Washington has won only one battle, that from Rolla, while Kansas was tied at 7 to 7.

But past performances mean little when the two elevens get together. This has been shown before and the game this year probably will be no exception.

Although the Bears are slight favorites in the betting, on a direct line through the Creighton game, the dope favors the Billikens. St. Louis U. won from the Omaha eleven, 16 to 6, whereas Creighton won from Grinnell last Friday, 20 to 13. And Grinnell the week before trounced the Bears, 7 to 6.

Bears Outweigh Rivals.
The chief trouble with the Washington team all season has been the absence of a scoring punch, as evinced by the fact that the Bears in eight engagements have scored only 35 points. And in one of these battles, the varsity trimmed the Freshmen by one touchdown, 6 to 0.

Except for the victory over Creighton, there is nothing sensational in the Billiken record. McKinzie, Rolla, and Louisville were defeated, while the team lost to Springfield Teachers, Detroit

Billikens Hope for Dry Field for Game; Joe Lintzenich at His Best

By Gerald Holland

A dry field. That's all the St. Louis University Billikens, again facing Washington on the short end of the odds ask to achieve the victory that their followers have been looking for the past 11 years. St. Louis needs good, firm soil underfoot to counterbalance the decisive weight advantage of the opposition with Knute Rockne formations, snappy shifts and a varied assortment of plays that require speed and precision to be effective. How badly they need a dry field was evident yesterday when the first team was found to average only 167 pounds net, surprising the coaches and even the players themselves.

Given a dry field, there is every reason to expect Hearty Anderson's eleven to distinguish itself. Although reserve material is scarce the starting lineup is in fairly good condition; the 170-pound line is tough defensively, and the backfield, sparked by Joe Lintzenich as good as he ever was, is fast and clever.

May Depend on Passes.
The supposition is that Hearty Anderson will depend on skirting the ends and forward passing to win. On the face of it, there appears to be no chance of profit by banging away at a line as heavy as the Bears front wall. In recent games, St. Louis has not scored an overhead game but the past few weeks of practice have been devoted largely to the development of passing combinations with the result that the Billikens now have an aerial offense that should prove effective. Three fast backs, Lintzenich, Eaton, and Dimberger, will be constant threats.

The starting line named by Coach Anderson has four men in it who have not played regularly this season. Lyle Drury, 183-pound six-footer, and Jewell Brown, a veteran with two years of varsity experience, will open at the ends held down by Ford Brown and Vic Daubner previously. At right tackle, Barney Miller, who won All-Valley honors as a guard with Washington several seasons ago, will fill the vacancy left in turn by Joseph

Coach Sharpe Expects Close Game; Five Bear Regulars Will Graduate

By Jerry Bernoudy

A Washington University football team fully determined to win and thereby redeem itself for a disastrous season will trot out on Sportman's Park to battle St. Louis University.

Meanwhile local football fans and student bodies of both institutions, unimpaired of past performances, have been rushing the ticket offices, so that the crowd is expected to be larger than that of 1922 when 19,000 attended.

The Bears took their semifinal workout on Francis Field last night with every man on the squad in uniform, including Ralph Kurr and George Coover. Both appeared fully recovered from recent illnesses and showed no tendency to show up while running signals. This afternoon the Bears will go through an abbreviated drill at Sportman's Park.

The green jerseyed eleven is generally held to be a slight favorite over the Billikens, but history has proved on a number of occasions that the Bears, heavy favorites before the game, have barely escaped defeat.

Sharp expects close game. Five coaches like to make pre-

WRAY'S COLUMN

In the "Good Old Days."

TWENTY-TWO years ago, tomorrow St. Louis had its first real taste of success in football. In a way, it was an epoch-making game, for it resulted in the first broadcasting of the game of the forward pass.

The game was between Eddie Cochems' St. Louis University eleven and the powerful unit from Iowa University, then a factor in Mid-west championship determination.

It was the first year of the new rules. Forty-four deaths and more than 500 hundred serious injuries during the campaign of 1901 had brought about a reform wave which resulted in the elimination of the mass play and the introduction of the forward pass.

Because Edward B. Cochems studied the rules meticulously and fashioned their possibilities, and because Lieutenant (now Colonel) H. B. Hackett of West Point was the referee of the game, the world's first hint of what the forward pass was ultimately to mean to the college game was made public.

Lieut. Hackett Broadcasting.
HACKETT was amazed at what he saw that day. The writer reported the game and interviewed the West Point official after the contest. He said in part:

"The game was the most perfect exposition of the possibilities of the forward pass I have seen. St. Louis University's use of this play surpassed anything that Harvard, Yale and Princeton showed me this year. (Hackett had officiated at the Big Three contests and in those days what the Big Three did was the last word in football.)"

"The style of pass used by St. Louis University differs completely from the style employed in the East, where the ball is thrown high in the air and the receiver protected by a screen of players. The speed and distance attained by the St. Louis University passers was amazing and their accuracy no less so. These factors gave the eleven a tremendous advantage."

"Cochems' eleven lacked finish, as Eastern team standards go. I think there is a doubt if they could have worked their plays as successfully against Yale, Harvard and Chicago as they did against Iowa."

The lieutenant's message was carried East and several years later the St. Louis "projectile pass," as it then was called, was adopted rather reluctantly by Eastern coaches.

The pass seen at Sportman's Park tomorrow by Washington and St. Louis universities will excel in no fundamental particular the play of Cochems' team 22 years ago, when it was just aborning.

ward passes in this period were successful, the first one of the period netting 25 yards and the second 8 yards. Two touchdowns resulted directly from forward passes, the most spectacular being due to a 25-yard pass which was followed by a five-yard run over the goal line.

In all, about 120 yards of direct gain from passing resulted, and three touchdowns.

First Triple-Threat Man.
THAT was the visible result. But the disabling effect on the opponent's morale and its disorganization of the enemy defense were worth four more touchdowns, all of which were earned by straight football play.

From the time the first forward pass was thrown by Schneider from a kick formation, the Iowa players did not know whether they were in a football game or a circus. It was the first example of the triple threat in football, for Schneider punted, threw the pass for 40 yards if necessary, was the central figure in the plunging and was used in a double pass play from the same formation.

The forward pass opened up the enemy line, enabling St. Louis runners like Acker and Robinson to sift through at it; but the conservative East would have nothing to do with the pass until years later when teams like Notre Dame, with Rockne and Dorais as stars, carried the play right up to the front doors of the East and made them like it.

To this day there are those who attribute the lapse from power of Yale, Harvard, Princeton and other elevens, to their failure to promptly react to the new stuff.

St. Louis and Cochems have never been given due credit for development of the forward pass; but the fact remains that no team in the United States, except the St. Louis eleven, mastered the new rules and their possibilities in 1905 and few had made any advance, even during the next year.

One year after the Iowa game, with the new rules two years old, a Nebraska team which had tied the great Minnesota machine, 6-4, came here and was slaughtered as completely as was

Jimmy Faucett of the Missouri Pacific A. C. won from Freddy Saunders of the East St. Louis K. of C. in the outstanding event on the amateur boxing program of the Missouri Pacific A. C. at its arena, 3001 Chouteau avenue, last night, before about 750 spectators.

In the other special events, Kenneth Lee, Croatian A. C., defeated Ross Palmer, East St. Louis K. of C.; Nathan Crystal, East St. Louis K. of C., trimmed the veteran Sam Burns of the Missouri Pacific A. C. and Johnny Tomazzi, Missouri Pacific A. C., outpointed Morgan Lingenfelter, Motorbus A. C.

Two knockouts occurred in the preliminary bouts, Lou Vollmer, Business Men's A. C., stopping Zavan Tarran, Missouri Pacific A. C., in the third round, and Paul Zunchek, East St. Louis K. of C., dropping Herman Kohl of the Flori Olympian A. C. in the first round.

The bout between Edgar Terry, Flori Olympian A. C., and Charley Sapp of the Motorbus A. C., was called no contest by Referee Harry Sharpe in the third round after continued rule violations.

SPECIAL BOUTS.
Nathan Crystal, East St. Louis K. of C., defeated Sam Burns, Missouri Pacific A. C., judge's decision, 135 pounds.

Kenneth Lee, Croatian A. C., defeated Ross Palmer, East St. Louis K. of C., judge's decision, 147 pounds.

Jimmy Faucett, Missouri Pacific A. C., defeated Freddy Saunders, East St. Louis K. of C., judge's decision, 133 pounds.

Johnny Tomazzi, Missouri Pacific A. C., defeated Morgan Lingenfelter, Motorbus A. C., judge's decision, 118 pounds.

PRELIMINARIES.
Edgar Terry, Flori Olympian A. C., and Charles Sapp, Motorbus A. C., declared no bout by referee for rules violation (three rounds), 126 pounds.

Jack Emerich, East St. Louis K. of C., defeated Woodrow Williams, unattached, judge's decision, 126 pounds.

Lou Vollmer, B. M. A. C., won from Zavan Tarran, Missouri Pacific A. C., technical knockout, third round, 165 pounds.

Paul Zunchek, East St. Louis K. of C., won from Herman Kohl, Flori Olympian A. C., technical knockout, first round, 112 pounds.

HIGH SCHOOL LEAGUE MAY FRAME NEW LAWS TO COVER TITLE TIES

There is a possibility that the High School Athletic Board at one of its winter meetings will introduce a rule which will necessitate a play-off in case of a tie between two schools in any sport. This as a result of the tie in the football race with Soidan and Roosevelt sharing the honors.

There is still a chance that a post-season game will be arranged by league officials.

The Iowa eleven the year before, and because of the same fault—lack of mastery of forward pass and its defense.

That "Necktie" Tackle.
THERE was plenty of talk about the St. Louis 1906 team lacking "finish." As a matter of fact, "necktie" tackles were numerous and some of the accepted policies of attack and defense were ignored. But it was not neglect, Cochems knew that his new style of play would uproot all standard ideas of defense and attack, and leave the enemy at sea.

The high tackle he purposely taught. He made one mistake in teaching it. He thought that other coaches would develop the forward pass, as he had done, and he wanted his men to tackle high to help smoother passes.

He gave his rivals too much credit.

"Tramp Athletes."
THEY called Cochems' men "tramp athletes."

Looking over the list of men who entered that game of Thanksgiving day, 1906, I read the following names: Robinson, Irwin, Kinney, Orr, French, Laigh, Lowe, Murphy, Captain Kewey, Acker and Schneider.

With the exception of Abijah French, all of these men graduated, if recollection serves, seven of them in one year.

They gained their diplomas and you can hear of most of them about the country today, practicing their professions—all except Dr. Eddie Murphy, the great quarterback. He checked out last year, after practicing medicine here since his graduation.

These men paid in hard work for the privilege of playing football. There were lamp-lighters, milkmen, janitors, advertising men and what not among them, all working their way through school; and if a man is a "tramp" who works at night, plays football every afternoon, studies when he can and finally graduates summa cum laude, as several did, these men were surely hobos.

Webster Plays Kirkwood High Team Tomorrow

The County High School football season will close tomorrow with the playing of two games. Webster and Kirkwood are scheduled to battle in a morning contest, while in the afternoon, Kirkwood and Webster play at Webster. The first contest will figure in the county standings.

The Kirkwood-Webster contest, although not figuring in any championship competition, is expected to develop into one of the best games of the season, inasmuch as their is great rivalry between the two schools. On the "dope" Kirkwood figures to win.

MINORS ARE NOT LIKELY TO O. K. NEW DRAFT LAW

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—Efforts of the major leagues to entice the three Class AA baseball circuits into the draft when the minors meet at Toronto a week from today are apt to prove futile, in the opinion of Thomas J. Hickey, president of the American Association.

For eight years the three Class AA circuits—the American Association, the International and the Pacific Coast leagues—and the Three-Eye and Western leagues have permitted only a modified form of draft on their players by the majors. The present working agreement between the five leagues and the majors provides that any player, being one played with a major league club, is eligible for the draft.

Under the proposed legislation any player drafted from a Class AA club must have had his name on the reserve list of a minor league club for four years. The majors place the apprenticeship in Class A circuits at three years and Class B at two years.

The proposal of the majors which is likely to meet with the most approval of the minor league magnates is the clause agreeing that the majors will keep their hands off all free agents, except college players.

"GOALIE" ANDERSON SENSATIONAL 4500 PERS

By W.
Forty-five hundred per last night to welcome ice hockey enthusiasm the new sport has won away well pleased after seeing St. in the first game of the American

Thrills were packed into the three periods from the time Bill Hill sent St. Louis off in the lead after 14 minutes of the opening session until Harry Cameron crashed the third St. Louis marker into the Millers' net late in the last period.

St. Louis clearly outplayed Minneapolis in the first two periods and was leading 2 to 0 when the final stanza started due to Hill's goal and another by Earl Taylor. But Minneapolis, champions last year, came back in the closing period to tie the score with two vigorous assaults. It appeared for a time as though the fans were doomed to disappointment. That was until the St. Louis team got its second wind, started a strenuous attack and kept pecking away at the Minneapolis goal until Cameron, on with an open shot, made good to regain the lead for St. Louis at 3 to 2. One minute after Cameron had sent the puck home the bell sounded ending the contest.

Play Again Tomorrow.
There will be another contest between the teams tomorrow night at the Winter Garden and so well pleased was coach Alex Irvine that it is likely he will start the same line which opened last night, although he may send Boleau in at left wing instead of Goyer.

If there was an outstanding star on the St. Louis team it was Iver Anderson, the goaltender. It has been no secret around the Winter Garden that Anderson was looked upon as the weak link in the St. Louis hockey chain. But he stood up well in the opening game.

Time and again the St. Louis goalie made great saves and even after he had been hit in the right eye with the puck he remained in the game to stare off Minneapolis assaults. Thirty-seven times during the contest Anderson was called upon to stop the Millers and he made good 35 times. Often his spilled head foremost on the ice to smother an attack, again he caught the puck with his hands, frequently he stopped them with his stick and once, as related, he stopped the flying rubber with his eye.

But there were other St. Louis heroes. There was Hill, who scored the first goal and broke up many Miller rallies. Then there was Jim Seaborn, Captain, and Curly Headley, who starred on the defense. And Earl Taylor, the defense man, recently acquired from the Chicago Black Hawks, who by a clever piece of energetic work scored the second St. Louis goal which followed a St. Louis attack into the corner of the rink behind the Millers' goal and with a hard curving shot drove the puck between the skates of Timmons. And Cameron, who counted the deciding marker. And Bill Hill, who with the crowd with his desperate work in driving the puck toward the Minneapolis goal and checking Miller's rallies. All did heroic work. They wanted to win and they did.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Faced with the prospect of relatively firm call money rates for the balance of the year, the stock market, nevertheless, resumed its upward movement today, with the advance reaching violent proportions in some of the high-priced specialties at one period.

Total sales aggregated 6,356,600 shares, the fourth largest in the history of the market. Profit-taking in the closing sales was readily absorbed, although Radio lost more than 12 points of its gain. The ticker ran 49 minutes after the close.

Considerable irregularity developed in the early trading as a result of rather heavy pre-holiday profit-taking, which followed the normal decline of the call money rate to 5 per cent, and a slight hardening of time money rates, but in most cases the offerings were well absorbed.

Shortly after mid-day, powerful buying stepped into the market with large buying orders, and the "bull" movement was again in full swing. The day's news was largely favorable. The weekly "Iron Age" review said that steel prices were easier, but that the seasonal decline in production had been checked. Several favorable October railroad earnings statements made their appearance, the aggregate net operating income of the first 10 months to report for that month being $184,467,000, as against $184,467,000 in September and $299,285,000 in October, 1927.

Another shipment of gold to Canada was announced during the day, bringing the total on the current movement to $12,000,000. With the heavy holiday demands beginning to make themselves felt, little hope is held out by bankers for easier rates unless there should be a drastic reaction in stock prices.

Some Afternoon Ranges.

Radio touched 400, a jump of 35 points in the afternoon. Brooklyn Union Gas went to 194, a gain of 23; People's Gas hit 217, and Consolidated Gas climbed to 198, a rise of 10 points. Utilities were up 5 to 8 points. Victor Talking Machine convertible preferred, which is seldom traded in, sold at 200, a jump of 101 points from the previous transaction several months ago. American Linseed was up 3 1/2 to 167, a new high figure, and Keith-Albee preferred advanced 5 points to 132. Standard Oil of New York was bought in blocks of 5000 to 20,000 shares at 40 and better. Big blocks of Packard and Yellow Truck carried these two stocks to 133 and 47 1/2 respectively.

Sales approximated 6,200,000 shares.

In First Three Hours.

Radio was again the sensational performer in first three hours of today's market.

Radio rose 2 1/2 points to a new high record at 400. Brooklyn Edison ran up 25 points to a new top at 225. Motor Products soared 21 points. Wright Aeronautical 20 1/2. American Express 1 1/2. Gold Dust 1 1/2. Adams Express and Brooklyn Union Gas 10 1/2 each, and People's Gas, Consolidated Gas, American & Foreign Power, International Telephone, Interstate Department Stores, Keith-Albee preferred, Mexican Petroleum, National Bellas Hess, By-Products Coke, Worthington Pump & Burroughs Adding Machine, Curtiss Aeroplane, New York Dock and Liquid Carbonic sold 5 to 8 points higher, several of them at new highs.

Rails were more mixed. Rock Island common, Chicago Great Western common and preferred and Kansas City Southern sold at their best prices of the year, but Reading, Texas & Pacific and Erie common were heavy at one period.

The stock market experienced one of the quietest openings in weeks today, although prices generally tended upward.

Wright Aero opened with a jump of 5 points, and Union Carbide of 2. Some of the rails were fractionally higher, including Canadian Pacific and New Haven. National Biscuit, however, fell about 2 1/2 points, and Yellow Truck yielded a point. The transactions were comparatively small, in contrast to the opening turnover of blocks of 5000 to 10,000 shares of recent sessions.

The "bull" movement quickly gained momentum as specialties, gold dust, and Union Carbide, and Erie common, one block of 10,000 shares of Mexican Petroleum, one block of 10,000 shares of Consolidated Gas at 99 1/2, up 6 points; a block of 10,000 shares of Pacific Oil, one of the lowest-priced stocks on the board, at 1 1/2, up 3/4, and a block of 10,000 shares of Consolidated Gas at 99 1/2, up 6 points.

BRIDGE As Played by EXPERTS

THIRD GAME.

BRIDGE players who tuned in on the radio bridge game broadcast yesterday afternoon from station KSD, were given an insight into the very logical processes by which the masters of the game work what appear as miracles to the uninitiated.

Paired with Mr. Work at the radio table was E. V. Shepard of New York, the recognized authority on the mathematical features of the game; while Mr. Whitehead played with R. J. Leiberderfer of New York, noted as a bridge analyst and player.

The hands were: Mr. Shepard, South, the dealer; Spades, A, 5, hearts, K, 5; diamonds, 10, 7, 3, 2; clubs, J, 10, 7, 5, 2. Mr. Whitehead, West; Spades, K, Q, J, 6; hearts, J, 10, 9; diamonds, A, K, 5; clubs, A, 9, 8. Mr. Work, North; Spades, 9, 7, 4; hearts, 8, 4, 2; diamonds, J, 8, 6, 5, 4; clubs, K, 4. Mr. Leiberderfer, East; Spades, 10, 8, 3, 2; hearts, A, Q, 7, 6, 3; diamonds, Q, Clubs, Q, 8, 6.

Mr. Shepard, the dealer, lacking the two quick tricks required for an initial bid passed. Mr. Whitehead, West, bid one No Trump, preferring it to his alternative bid of one spade, on account of the 4-3-2-3 distribution of his hand, which is better adapted to no trump play. Had his spade suit been one card longer, and the low card missing from any of his other suits, he would have bid the major instead of no trump.

Mr. Work, North, passed; and Mr. Leiberderfer, East, took his partner out of the no trump by bidding two hearts. He did this in accord with the present practice of showing a five-card major suit of reasonable strength over partner's no trump, regardless of the distribution of the hand. Such a bid gives the no trump bidder the option either of passing and trying for game at the major, or of rebidding the no trump with assurance that dummy will be helpful.

In this connection it was pointed out by Mr. Work that a take-out of partner's No Trump should not be made with a weak five-card major even when the hand takes a worthless singleton. Such a take-out is liable to prove dangerous, as the No Trump bidder may not like the Major and will rebid the No Trump; then find too little assistance in the Dummy hand to enable him to make the contract. In this case, however, the singleton Queen of Diamonds was not worthless; and the major suit was far from weak. Moreover, the hand had some assistance from the No Trump in every suit.

After East's trick, Mr. Shepard, South, passed. So did Mr. Whitehead, West, as he had normal support for the Hearts, including two honors, and only a single stopper in Clubs, which might prove troublesome at No Trump. Mr. Work, North, passed, giving East the bid for two hearts.

Mr. Shepard opened the play with the 5 of Clubs, the fourth-best card of his longest suit. Mr. Whitehead's hand was spread for dummy, and Mr. Leiberderfer, the Declarer, played from it the Ace of Clubs. This play of the Ace, where the average player would have chanced playing one of dummy's small Clubs, was arrived at after this very pretty reasoning by Mr. Leiberderfer.

If Mr. Shepard, South, led from a four-card Club suit, Mr. Work, North, held three Clubs. One of these probably was the King, since Mr. Shepard presumably would have a better opening lead than one away from a King-Queen opening which, against a suit bid, is constantly avoided by good players. If, however, Mr. Shepard's Club suit was of five cards, Mr. Work, North, could have but two, if one of them were the King. Mr. Work would win the trick, if Declarer did not play dummy's Ace, and would immediately return the suit, so as to be able to ruff the third round.

Declarer's plan of play had to consider the most dangerous contingency—in this case, that Mr. Shepard's opening was from a five-card suit. In this event, if North were permitted to win the first Club trick with the King, Mr. Leiberderfer, Declarer, upon the return of the Clubs by North, would have to win the second trick with dummy's Ace in order to try the trump finesse against the outstanding King of Hearts, should this finesse fail. Mr. Shepard, South, winning the Heart trick, would lead a third round of Clubs, which Mr. Work, North, could trump. This Club ruff, the King of Clubs, the King of trumps, and the Ace of Spades would give the adversaries four tricks and stop game.

To prevent this possible catastrophe, Mr. Leiberderfer played dummy's Ace to the first trick. Mr. Work played the 4 of Clubs; Declarer the 6.

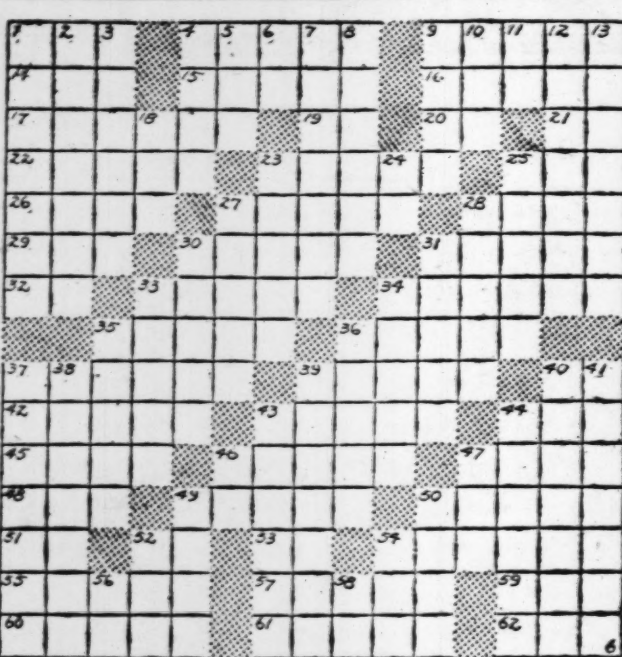

Mr. Leiberderfer led the Ace of Diamonds from dummy; Mr. Work played the 4; Declarer the Queen; Mr. Shepard the 2. Dummy continued with the King of Diamonds; Mr. Work played the 5; Declarer discarded the 3 of Clubs; Mr. Shepard played the 3 of Diamonds.

Having rid himself of a losing Club, limiting his possible loss in that suit to one trick, Declarer proceeded to try the Heart finesse, leading the Jack from dummy. Mr. Work played the 2; Declarer the 8; Mr. Shepard won with the King.

Mr. Shepard then led the 2 of Clubs; dummy played the 3; Mr. Work the King; and Declarer the Queen.

monds rather than lead up to this strong Spade suit in dummy. Mr. Shepard trumped with the 6 of Hearts; Mr. Shepard played the 7 of Diamonds; dummy played the 8. Declarer then led the 9 of Hearts; Mr. Shepard played the 5; dummy the 2. Mr. Work the 3. Continuing trumps, Declarer led the 10 from dummy; Mr. Work played the 8; Declarer the Queen; and Mr. Shepard discarded the 7 of Clubs.

Mr. Leiberderfer, declarer, then led the two of spades, which Mr. Shepard, South, won with the ace, dummy following with the six, and Mr. Work with the four. Mr. Shepard led the Jack of clubs; dummy played the nine; Mr. Work discarded the nine of diamonds; and Declarer trumped with the ace of hearts. Declarer then led a spade to the three high spades in dummy, which were good for the last three tricks, giving declarer four odd, game at hearts, with 32 points for tricks and 40 for four honors divided.

In discussing the bidding of this hand at contract, Mr. Work stated that Mr. Whitehead, West, would bid no trump, for the same reasons that he bid no trump in the auction hand. The only question in contract would be whether to bid one or two. The general rule is to bid two no trumps when the hand counts 17 (reckoning ace four, king three, queen two and jack one), and has four suits stopped; but with one unstoppped suit, to bid only one no trump.

The West hand counts 18—one more than the no trump minimum.

Persian Wives Can Now Walk With Husbands

TEHERAN, Persia.

THE women of Persia have won their first victory in the fight for freedom. They may now walk in public with their husbands, one wife at a time.

The wily modernizing Shah has framed this first emancipation law in such a way as to strike his first wedded blow at polygamy, for it does not state merely that women may appear in public. It reads the other way around, as follows:

"Henceforth, throughout the length and breadth of Persia, a man may conduct his wife through the public streets and into no matter what public place of reunion, such as a theater, restaurant or cabaret." It must be noted that the law reads "his wife," not "his wives."

The Chief of Police of Teheran emphasized this point in the revolutionary edict when he, the first of all men in all the history of Persia, walked the streets of the capital the day the law was promulgated, with one of his four legal wives trotting beside him.

All other high officials and as many citizens as dared defy the maledictions of the priests followed the example of the Chief of Police, so that it is now no rare sight in Teheran to behold a woman, well heavily veiled, but nevertheless an authentic woman, parading publicly with a man. The squabbles which must go on behind the lattices of Persian harems as to which wife shall have the first turn at stopping-out and which the next turn, and so on, toll inevitably polygamy's first knell.

Vells are sure to go, too, for women who are admitted into the company of men are more determined to be seen than to be heard. The priests in this most fanatical of all Moslem countries are the leaders of the revolt against the emancipation of women, but it is believed here that it is only a question of a few weeks until the shah abolishes this opposition just as Emir Amanullah did in Kabul, by slipping nooses round the necks of a number of the most virulent priests and dangling them in public places for the reactionaries to behold.

The impetus for the recent emancipating law came from Queen Suraya, who, visiting Teheran with the Emir en route to Afghanistan after their European tour, made such a scene because she was permitted to appear at the official reception and so ruffled the shah by her tales of the European festivities which she had graced that the would-be emulator of Turkey's ghazi and Afghanistan's Amanullah swore that there that he would do something about it. He could not get the law passed before Queen Suraya left for Kabul, but the shah no longer needs to dread her next visit.

Washable Gloves

MORE than one pair of gloves guaranteed to be washable has turned out a sad disappointment—sometimes shrinking, again acquiring hard spots in the leather, or streaking, or doing various and sundry unsatisfactory things.

The average washable suede glove may be cleaned in tepid suds, well rinsed in clear water of the same temperature, placed without wringing in a towel to absorb surplus moisture, then laid out flat to dry.

Washable glove gloves, on the other hand, are best when they are laundered in tepid suds on both sides and then rinsed well. This is something of a task, as a leather glove is not particularly easy to turn inside out when wet, but it more than repays the trouble. This is requisite for the reason that a glove does not soil as readily as a suede and therefore may be worn for a longer time, which fact necessitates a more thorough cleansing.

Genuine capekin gloves lose their softness when subjected to soap and to warm water. The directions for washing them are to work them gently between the fingers in COLD water absolutely free from soap of any kind. Rinse thoroughly, place between folds of a towel, then lay flat to dry.

Children's Bedtime Story By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

BUSTER BEAR IS JUMPY.

Temptation always is insistent, and day and night is most persistent.

—Old Mother Nature.

BUSTER BEAR tried to fool himself. He tried to make himself believe that he was surprised to find himself back at the place from which he had started in the morning. "Now, how did I get here?" said Buster to himself. "How under the sun did I get here? Why, this is the place I was running away from, and here I am back again! Well, now that I am here, I believe I'll have another look at those pigs. A look isn't going to hurt anybody."

But Buster didn't start right over to the piggies. In the first place, there were lights in the litte. He just couldn't tear himself away. One of the wandering Little Night Breezes brought the pig smell over to him. You and I wouldn't have liked that at all. But to Buster Bear it was the most tantalizing smell possible. No wonder he couldn't tear himself away.

The little stars twinkled brightly in the sky. The moon came out and flooded the little farm with light. Out there back of the barn the piggies were almost as light as by day. The pigs were uneasy and moved around. Buster could hear them. Finally he sighed. It was a long, deep sigh.

"I've got to have one of those pigs," said Buster to himself. Just can't get away without one of those pigs. Every time I think of those pigs my stomach turns over with longing. One pig won't be missed. I don't believe it would get me into any trouble after all."

He stepped out into the moonlight and standing up, looked long and hard. Then he started toward the pen.

"I've got to have one of those pigs," said Buster to himself.

Schools Look to Home To Augment Training

By Neal O'Hara

THE responsibility of the home in child education grows increasingly important.

Curry Adams of the National Education Association told the leadership training conference of the District Congress of Parents and Teachers at Washington.

"Children live 24 hours a day and not more than six or seven of those hours are spent in school," Mr. Adams said. The danger hours come after the school has closed its doors for the evening. The tragedies of childhood and youth seldom take place in the classroom. "Education is meeting the challenge of the changing world by providing a curriculum which concerns itself with making children physically and mentally sound; preparing them for worthy home membership; providing them with an appreciation of the tools, techniques and spirit of learning; instilling in them the loftiest ideals of faithful citizenship and so doing the whole process that the development of noble character will be the self-improvement goal of every boy and girl."

Socrates got famous thousands of years ago by sitting all day at the edge of a public fountain and teaching philosophy to boys. One day, he was known in the sporting columns, taught many a radical theory, and he would have been a soap box orator only so long as he had not been discovered in those days. They used olive oil for scrubbing purposes then, and as it would have been foolish to stand on an olive oil jar and orate, Socrates sat down. But he was a soap box orator just the same.

Socrates later became famous as the original victim of bootleg hooch. He swallowed a cup of hooch, lost his balance, and fell into the water. It was a great big victory for the Anti-Saloon League.

But it was as an all-around teacher that Socrates shone. In those days the Greeks had no good way to the fruit and restaurant business, and bootblack concessions were in their infancy. So the young Greeks had time to loiter around the feet of Socrates and pick up the equivalent of a college education, minus the raccoon coats.

Socrates did all the teaching himself. He was a one-man university. Like E. Haldeman-Julius or Arthur Brisbane. And the secret of his system was asking pertinent questions, so he had a touch of a Smith in him, too. That is the way Socrates imparted knowledge—by answering your questions with a series of questions and letting you answer yourself. It works out something like this:

I'LL TELL THE WORLD BY NEAL O'HARA

TEACHING THE YOUNG IDEA WILLIAM MCANDREW, noted Chicago educator, has gone to Athens to study the Socratic method of teaching. Mr. McAndrew wants to establish this system in American schools when he comes back. He says he is returning in about a year and that is altogether too soon.

Socrates got famous thousands of years ago by sitting all day at the edge of a public fountain and teaching philosophy to boys. Old Socrates, as he was known in the spring columns, taught many a radical theory, and he would have been a soap box orator only soap had not been discovered in those days. They used olive oil for scrubbing purposes then, and as it would have been foolish to stand on an olive oil jar and orate, Socrates sat down. But he was a soap box orator just the same.

Socrates later became famous as the original victim of bootleg liquor. He swallowed a cup of hemlock oil, you will remember, and died. It was a great big victory for the Anti-Saloon League.

But it was as an all-around teacher that Socrates shone. In these days the Greeks had not got wise to the fruit and restaurant business, and bootleg concessions were in their infancy. So the young Greeks had time to loiter around at the feet of Socrates and pick up the equivalent of a college education, minus the raccoon coats.

Socrates did all the teaching himself. He was a one-man university, like E. Haldeman-Julius or Arthur Brisbane. And the secret of his system was asking pertinent questions, so he had a touch of Al Smith in him, too.

Anyhow, that is the way Socrates imparted knowledge—by answering your questions with a series of questions and letting you answer it yourself. It works out something like this:

TEACHER—Johnny, what is the capital of Ohio?
JOHNNY—You'd like to know, wouldn't you?
TEACHER—I sure would. Come on, boy—the capital of Ohio. It isn't Cincinnati, is it?
JOHNNY—No, Cincinnati's in the National League.

TEACHER—And is Cleveland the capital of Ohio?
JOHNNY—Nope, Cleveland's the last Democrat that got New York's electoral votes.

TEACHER—Very well, Johnny; what is it, then?
JOHNNY—Toledo.

TEACHER—No. Let me give you a clue. What was one of the greatest discoveries ever made?
JOHNNY—Eskimo pie.

TEACHER—Well, yes; but what man discovered land that no one knew existed before?
JOHNNY—I know—Albert B. Fall. And Fall River's the capital of Ohio.

TEACHER—No, Johnny. Now pay attention. What Queen had a lot of jewels and pawned them?
JOHNNY—Peggy Joyce.

TEACHER—No, Johnny. I think: What does 1492 suggest to you?
JOHNNY—Marked down from 1412. What happened then?
JOHNNY—I supposed it was a presidential election.

TEACHER—Johnny, concentrate on the capital of Ohio, please. Now, then, who first landed in America?
JOHNNY—The Indians.

TEACHER—And who came after the red men?
JOHNNY—The Elks.

TEACHER—Now we're getting somewhere. And who came after the Elks, the Eagles, the Owls, the Moose, the Masons and the Odd Fellows?
JOHNNY—I know—the Knights of Columbus. And Columbus is the capital of Ohio.

That, friends, is the Socratic method of teaching. And if we ever get it in America, your little boy will graduate from high school at the age of 65.

WHO IS GUILTY?

Match Your Wits With the Author and See If You Can Unravel This Mystery—The Correct Solution Will Be Printed in The Post-Dispatch, Friday.

MR. SOUTHEY'S GREAT DAY. By Evelyn Johnson and Gretta Palmer.

YOU can't pull that stuff!" some one shouted. Mrs. Quail looked up nervously from her bridge game.

"Those ruffians playing poker," she said glancing angrily over to the far corner of the smoking room, "they've been drunk during the whole crossing."

"So disagreeable," said Mr. Southeby. "You're a dirty crook, Moody," yelled one of the poker players, swaying to his feet.

There was a crash as the glasses were swept to the floor, and a confused uproar as the drunk lunged at Moody and Moody struck back viciously.

The nice gentlemen playing bridge and drinking liqueurs pushed back their chairs and shouted for the steward or requested their wives to be calm in loud hysterical voices. Several ladies screamed. Little Albert rushed in from his pantry muttering, "Quelles crapules. C'est ignoble!" Griggs and Moody were separated before any damage had occurred except a large, ugly bruise over one of Moody's cold gray eyes.

Most of the passengers retired, however, and the incident made a very nasty impression.

Next day, an ominous rumor went around. Mr. Griggs, avowed Mr. Southeby who sat at the Captain's table, had been found dead in his cabin. Very few people felt like playing deck tennis that morning.

Mr. Southeby, who prided himself on being always well informed, presented Griggs' steward with a ten-dollar bill, and the steward became loquacious. Monsieur Greeg have gone to the bed at eleven. He always have the bath at nine.

The bath steward knock and knock. He not respond. He call the Chief steward who assault the door which is lock, and find the poor Monsieur Greeg lying on the couchette beneath the port-hole, pierced at the heart with a knife.

The key is on the floor near to him. Valry said such a nice Monsieur keel himself. Mercl beaucoup, Monsieur.

Mr. Southeby felt that this was a big day for him. He was a big day for him. He was a big day for him. He was a big day for him.

There were also some unaccountable scratches on the arm of the couch where the body had been found, and most curious of all, one of Griggs' was knotted to the open window of the port-hole. If it was suicide, as they had first supposed there were some very strange features involved.

The steward had seen Griggs go into his cabin at exactly 11, hence the interest in the vindictive Mr. Moody's movements after that hour.

Mr. Southeby drew a blank in his quest. Several passengers had seen Moody on the promenade deck at various times between 11

WHAT TO EAT TO GROW FAT

THE person who wishes to gain weight must eat more food than is necessary to meet his energy requirement; and his diet must be chosen largely from foods which supply fat. Fat or starches and sugars, which the body readily changes into fat, figure largely in the diet of one who would put on some extra pounds.

It is quite essential that a one-sided diet of fat producing foods is not adopted. It is of utmost importance that tissue-building foods, such as meat, eggs, cheese, etc., and body-regulating foods such as fruits and green vegetables which furnish minerals and vitamins are included.

The menus suggested below are suitable for those who would increase their weight. Of course, generous servings must be eaten. Extra nourishment should be taken in the mid-afternoon and before retiring. This may be some sort of a milk or cream drink, an egg nog, or a chocolate drink.

Rest is of special importance if one would put on weight. BREAKFASTS. I. Orange, cereal with cream, meat and potato cakes, toast, butter, marmalade, coffee or cocoa.

II. Grapefruit, cereal with cream, soft boiled egg, bacon, butter, coffee or hot chocolate. III. Baked apple with cream, cereal with cream, scrambled eggs and bacon, bran muffins, cocoa or coffee.

LUNCHEON. I. Cream of corn soup, crackers, banana and nut salad with mayonnaise dressing, bread, butter, milk, gingerbread with whipped cream.

II. Creamed asparagus on toast, string bean salad, baking powder biscuits, butter, honey, cocoa. III. Baked beans, chili sauce, vegetable salad, brown bread and butter, baked custard and cream, milk.

DINNER. I. Meat pie with vegetables, boiled cabbage, lettuce and pineapple salad, bread and butter, date pudding with whipped cream, coffee. II. Broiled ham, baked sweet potatoes, creamed onions, spinach, cole slaw, bread and butter, apple pie, cheese, coffee.

III. Pot roast, gravy, brown potatoes, mashed turnips, carrot and nut salad, hot rolls, rice pudding with cream, milk.

Pettie's Bath. A few drops of rose of Cologne water in bird's bathtub will keep him from picking his feathers and skin after his wetting.

The Colors That Paris Sponsors

CONFUSING indeed are the frequent assertions of the season's "most palpitating colors. And you wonder what, after all, Paris does decree WHAT is the ne plus ultra? From the following detailed account it is for you to accept or discard as you desire, with the assurance that your selection will be wise.

Black and white, if you can wear it, spells chic. This alliance permeates every mode of dress from formal afternoon ensembles to evening apparel, and other wear—except sports. Black alone is fashionable for everything but sports clothes. Even here it strikes an infrequent but highly modish note. White follows black in importance for evening.

It blue brings out the color of your eyes—our common feminine vanity—state is the most pulsing tone of the moment. A light blue is Patou's fancy for evening. Dark tones have been given prominence by other houses. Creditable blues include royal, navy and light blue—embracing the grayish and the greenish turquoise casts.

When red evokes most pulses from the beholder, you will do well to select brick, Chanel's strawberry for tweeds and woollens, Spanish and currant.

All greens are included in the style range: bottle or very deep green, medium tones like myrtle, sage, spruce; brilliant shades like billiard and ring; apple green; pale hues like lilac, absinthe, water and yellow greens.

Brown! Herein can the taste be gratified to the limit. The new brown is dark in tete de negra or African shade, and from this deep tone up through wood brown to tan. Beige combined with brown in tweeds and wool mixtures, velvet prints and fabric associations is highly smart. Beige cloth coats are susceptible to dark brown as a traxhan trim.

Beige gains, especially in crepe and satin daytime dresses. Nude tones in tulle and chenille dotted net and satin are chic evening colors.

Gray sees the light in furs for day and evening or is combined with navy in dress fabrics. Pink thrives in satin and velvet at night and also trims black day frocks.

Purple and yellow are conspicuously absent in the autumn mode.

Whiter Wood. When the kitchen table or cellar stops become discolored and darkened by usage they can be bleached nicely by a solution of one teaspoon oxalic acid to one cup of hot water. Apply with a scrubbing brush.

BABY BOOK IS "BEST SELLER"

THE most popular bulletin issued by the United States Government used to be a Department of Agriculture pamphlet on the care of the horse. The "best seller" of the Government printing office now is the bulletin on "Infant Care," issued by the Children's Bureau of the Department of Labor.

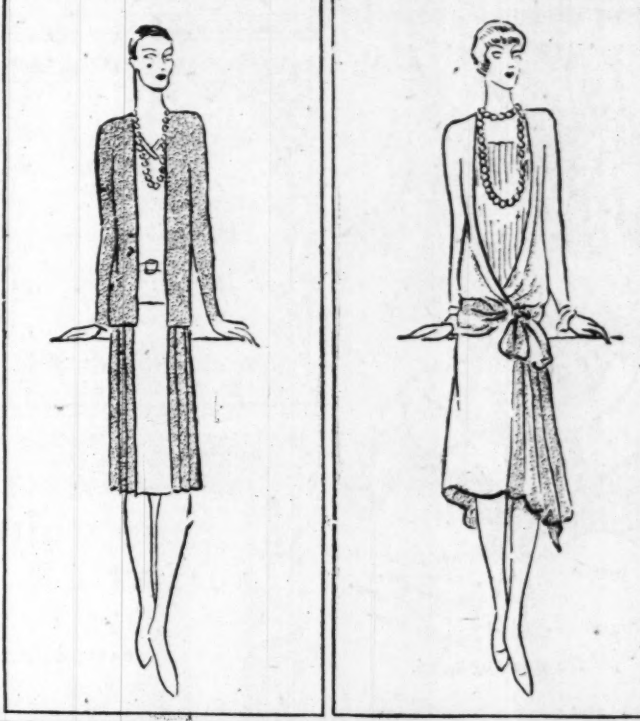

There is many a cabin home in the far, open spaces of the West or in secluded mountain districts remote from the highways of modern travel where the most treasured possession of the household is one of these little bulletins, says W. N. Smelser, assistant to the Secretary of Labor.

The bureau receives more than 100,000 letters a year. One mother in a distant state telegraphed, asking, "Shall I give my baby a dose of castor oil?" The question was referred to a woman physician in the maternity and infant hygiene division, who advised the anxious mother to consult her own family doctor.

It is one of the rules of the bureau not to give any medical treatment or advice in individual cases, but to help parents keep their children well by proper feeding, care and observance of the necessary rules of hygiene.

"Until the creation of the bureau, welfare workers, who were constantly receiving letters asking about methods of child care, were struck by the contrast between the ease with which farmers obtained help in dealing with the disease and plants of livestock and the lack of national center of information on the problems of childhood," said Smelser.

MISTAKES ALL WOMEN MAKE

MANY tall women who carefully avoid wearing frocks and coats made with long narrow panels because these accentuate their height, nevertheless often wear the type of costume in figure 1, without realizing that the width of the jacket opening and the arrangement of the pleats in the skirt give exactly the same effect as the panel. A dress like the one in the second drawing, with a more open, curving line to the waist and the panel effect at one side is much better because it adds to the impression of width.

GOURMETS TO HAVE BUSY SEASON

PARIS. THERE is a heavy official calendar for winter prepared for France's self-styled masters of the art of eating.

More or less formal manifestations of the traditional French supremacy in the field of eating and drinking are scheduled up to January, in rapid succession.

They will terminate with an exposition of the French dining table organized under the patronage of the Academy of Gastronomists, the Association of Regional Gastronomists, and various groups of bon vivants organized for the sole purpose of enjoying good food.

At the exposition displays of well decorated tables will be seen. The Sevres china factory, the Beauvais tapestry industry, and collectors of rare editions of old cook books and prints related to gastronomy will take part in the exposition of the dining table.

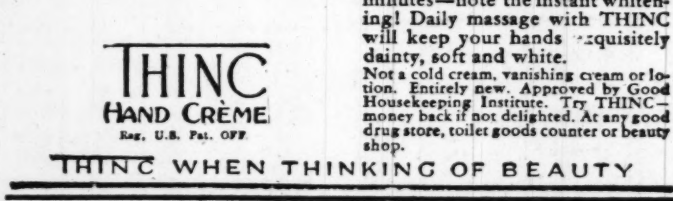

In November, Dijon celebrates its regional harvest with a fair devoted to culinary specialties. Bordeaux wines and products of Bordeaux soil. Epicureans gather from many parts of France at this famous event.

The restaurant Ledoyen in Paris is bringing famous chefs from all over France to prepare a succession of super-meals for a group of famous gourmets. The dinners will take place during the early winter.

The first menu, served recently was prepared entirely by master chefs of Paris, from the sole supreme on down the card, which included mignonnets of sweet breads, Chateaufort, prime ribs of beef grilled Elysees fashion with cepes and hearts of artichoke, quail and peaches.

Don't Have Ugly Red Hands

Marvelous New Kind of Cream, Specially for the Hands, Quickly Makes Them Soft and White!

THINC HAND CREME. THINC WHEN THINKING OF BEAUTY.

If Too Fat—Reduce!

By Dr. Theodore Beck. In the past ten years science has made great strides in learning the mysteries of human personality. In the study of the ductless glands, it is asserted that man or woman can be thin or fat, tall or short, ugly or beautiful, dull or brilliant, depending upon the secretions of the ductless glands.

Greatest and surest results have come from clinical experiences with the thyroid gland. Obesity, or overfatness, is often due to the failure of the thyroid gland to function correctly and by adjusting this fault, through the use of a scientific formula, obese persons lose from 5 to 15 pounds in 30 days. Many report reductions of from 40 to 70 pounds, and their joy knows no bounds.

For some years I have been recommending 5 grain Arbolone Tablets to those who wished to reduce. The constantly increasing demand for these tablets, their approval by many physicians and chemists, and the many grateful and thankful letters I receive, indicate that reductions are attained without any harmful results to the users. On the contrary, many report improvement in health, complexion and feelings. By permission, I am publishing a few of the many letters received.

An end to rough, red, work-coarsened hands! A marvelous new kind of cream makes the ugliest hands attractive and interesting. Improves them noticeably in two minutes—note the instant whitening! Daily massage with THINC will keep your hands exquisitely dainty, soft and white.

Not a cold cream, vanishing cream or lotion. Specially new. Approved by Good Housekeeping Institute. Try THINC—note the instant whitening. At any good drug store, toilet goods counter or beauty shop.

Reduced 12 Pounds in 30 Days. CHICAGO, ILLINOIS. Helen McG. Sheridan Road, writes: "After having taken Arbolone Tablets thirty days, I wish to tell you how pleased I am over results. I have reduced twelve pounds, and have eaten just what I wanted. I will recommend Arbolone to others etc."

Arbolone Reduced Satisfactorily. PHILADELPHIA, PA. Mrs. M. M. Claridge St. writes: "Have used Arbolone Tablets and have found them wonderful. Have taken six boxes and have lost considerable weight, and am still taking them. They make all the puffing, swelling away and make you feel fine." (A later letter reads) "I have received great satisfaction from Arbolone Tablets and cannot praise them too highly. As I believe in giving credit, where credit is due, etc."

Reduced 7 Pounds First Week. PENNSYLVANIA. N. Y. M. Chester, M. H. Cornwall St. writes: "Two weeks ago I purchased a box of 5 Grain Arbolone Tablets, took them as per directions and the first week reduced seven pounds and already feel much better. Weigh 125 and am sure that in a few weeks I will get back to my usual weight of 140 etc."

NEW PRESIDENT OF MEXICO TAKES OATH OF OFFICE

Portes Gil Says So Long as U. S. Respects Mexican Sovereignty It Will Have No Cause to Complain.

MAKES NO MENTION OF RELIGIOUS LAWS

Promises to Carry Out Policies of Obregon and Calles—25,000 Hear Inaugural Address.

By the Associated Press.
MEXICO CITY, Nov. 28.—Emilio Portes Gil took the oath as Provisional President of Mexico today and pledged his administration to a continuance of the policies of the Obregon and Calles Governments, especially in regard to friendship with the United States.
Immediately after being sworn the new President read a brief message outlining the policies his Government will pursue. Approximately 25,000 persons were in the National Stadium to witness the inauguration of the new Chief Executive.
Regarding foreign relations, Portes Gil mentioned especially those with the United States. He said that as long as the American Government continued to show a desire to respect Mexican sovereignty, the American people would have no cause to complain about their Southern neighbor. But he warned that sovereignty "is a point on which Mexico cannot recede or make concessions despite the magnitude of sacrifices that might become necessary."
Praise for Moron.
Saying that special mention was made of the United States because it is a neighbor and also due to the economic relations uniting the two countries, he added: "Fortunately, the wisdom and patriotism with which President Calles and Antonio Herrero have served the respective countries, have erased distrust and created a mutual understanding which, with all my heart, I desire may continue."
Portes Gil pledged his Government to "combat war," "eradicate thoughts of war." He said he would make sure that history would be taught in the schools of Mexico from a pacifist viewpoint. "It would not be thinkable to go against a general program (evidently a reference to the peace program) especially regarding a powerful neighbor."

The incoming President said that Mexico was proud of her hospitality and generosity which had been demonstrated for more than a century, and also proud of her independence. She would not change her policy of allowing foreign workers and capital to come and share the advantages of the land. He also promised that no prohibitive duties would be placed on foreign manufactured articles that did not compete with Mexican industries.

In regard to financial obligation he said the administration would endeavor to comply strictly with them whether they were internal or foreign.

To Continue Obregon's Program.
Turning to domestic affairs, Portes Gil said there would be strict fulfillment of the revolutionary program and a continuance of the work of the Obregon and Calles administrations. He said it must be frankly admitted that the revolution had made errors, one of the principal being the formation of "governments of friends," relegating to second consideration questions of capability and justice in connection with the appointment of officials. He explained that it had been impossible for previous administrations to settle this problem because of unfavorable conditions existing at the time. He pointed out that Gen. Obregon had his hands full dealing with those who thought that the revolution was merely a pretext for changing leaders.

Despite this Obregon had built a foundation for a realization of the hopes of the Mexican people.
To Serve Nation, Not Friends.
Portes Gil added that "President Calles had done his part by introducing a plan of economy, founding the Bank of Mexico, building roads, and furthering irrigation projects. It would be a task of his administration, he said, to strive to approach even nearer to perfection. Therefore he wished his Government to be a Government made up of men best prepared. "Men who know how to be loyal to man," he added, "must be replaced by men who know how to be loyal to the country."
Portes Gil said he "could not con-
